Integrating Advanced Legal Research

Gordon Russell Charleston School of Law grussell@charlestonlaw.org

Standard 601

- A law school shall maintain a law library that is an active and responsive force in the educational life of the law school. A law library's effect support of the school's teaching, scholarship, research and service programs requires a direct, continuing, and informed relationship with the faculty

Gordon Russell Charleston School of Law grussell@charlestonlaw.org

What sort of things would you like the Library to do:

- to support your teaching
- to support your scholarship
- to support your research
- to support your service programs

Gordon Russell Charleston School of Law grussell@charlestonlaw.org

Take 10 minutes to brainstorm:

- Group One
  - Support faculty teaching
  - Support faculty scholarship
- Group Two
  - Support faculty research
  - Support faculty service

Documents Without Shelves

Back to MARCIVE Home

Documents Without Shelves provides libraries like yours an automatic way to receive MARC records containing the URL/PURL addresses of government documents on the web. You will receive hundreds of new records customized for your local system automatically every month.

If you load these records into an Online Public Access Catalog with the ability to launch directly from a URL/PURL address to the website, your patrons will be able to hotlink directly to the full text.

To see a list of literature available, including a detailed description of Documents Without Shelves, click here.

For a file of six sample records, click here. Note that the records are in MARC format. The sample includes records originally cataloged in paper and also available in other physical formats. A serial record is included. All records have 856 fields which link to the actual document. We can customize the records according to your specifications.

For more information, please contact Joan Chapa at jchapa@marcive.com or call her at 1-800-531-7678.

Collection Development

Patron Driven Acquisition

Patron Driven Acquisition is a purchasing model that ensures usage of every eBook you acquire. Through this model, your users have access to a selection of eBooks from NetLibrary. Users have an option to view the selected titles but your purchases are made only when a specific title has been accessed. Patron Driven Acquisition ensures you have the titles your users need.

With Patron Driven Acquisition, you define your overall collection development strategy and maintain complete control over the types of titles available to your users. A profile for each collection dictates what type of content you'll make available, through specific definitions such as LCC/DDC ranges, subject headings, publication date ranges, publishers and price ranges per title.

Maintain complete control of your collection

Because you've set the overall strategy through your profile, you maintain complete control of your collection. Users simply select specific titles within the defined collection parameters—through their accesses. If you have a limited budget, you can also set a predefined spending limit for your Patron Driven Acquisition. Once you hit your limit, automatic access is disabled. An OCLC service representative will then contact you to help explore your options.

Ebooks Corporation Launches EBL

In collaboration with leading university and research libraries and major academic publishers, eBooks Corporation recently launched Ebook Library (EBL), a new ebook lending platform that delivers a rapidly expanding catalog of ebooks to academic and research libraries.

Ebook Library

EBL aims to extend digital lending capabilities, enable greater availability of books to greater number of students and deliver real cost savings and convenience to libraries and book publishers.

EBL draws on extensive experience in print and digital publishing, and on advice from respected members of the library, publishing and technology communities. The result is a new approach to ebook lending that integrates seamlessly with library workflows, provides an intuitive interface for flexible purchase and lending.

So what's Different about EBL?

Flexibility is what sets EBL apart. EBL is not a one size fits all solution; rather, EBL caters for your specific
