I. ADDITIONAL COMMENTS AND INFORMATION ON MY SCIENTIFIC WORK

A. Research

My scientific research to date has focused mainly on Law, Social Policy and Ageing. These constitute a novel and still developing field of academic expertise that, in light of the revolution in ageing and the struggle to shape new policies that address the social issues arising from it, has become a very dynamic and promising field of research.

In the short time of my academic activity I have begun to be known as an international expert in the field of Law, Social Policy and Ageing and have developed new models and modes of research in this field. There are already some international studies that have relied on my research findings.

I plan to continue in the coming years to develop my scientific research in my chosen field. I will try to establish myself as a leader in the field of Law, Social Policy and Ageing. I intend to use my experience and broad perspective in International and Comparative Law to broaden and to encourage research activities in the field.

I would like to emphasize that, for better or for worse, my expertise covers a field that is unique in both its novel inter-disciplinary nature and its relationship to a relatively young discipline namely, Gerontology. The interdisciplinary nature of my field of expertise mandates linking legal knowledge to Gerontology and Social Work. It requires being able to integrate the theory and methodology of disciplines that traditionally had no common ground. The novelty of this field is that only very few scholars in the world have developed expertise in it, while there is great interest in it and a need to develop it.

B. Teaching

In my teaching I place great emphasis on educating my students in both Gerontology and Social Work. I strive to achieve excellence in teaching, and my efforts were rewarded by "Awards for Excellence in Teaching", in 2002 and 2003. Moreover, I use up-to-date technology in my teaching. All my courses are computerized and all my lectures to classes are accompanied by Power Point presentations.

C. Social Involvement and Contribution to the Community

I am very actively involved in both the internal academic community and the external local and national social communities. Within academia I have initiated and have been involved in various projects, such as the establishment of the "cluster" of legal and ethical courses in my faculty; being a guest-editor of the Haifa University School of Social Work's academic journal; and the creation of a Students-Faculty Convention on Rights and Duties.

Outside the academic community I am heavily involved, on a voluntary basis, in general community activity and in sharing my expertise with the older population in Israel. I established a new NGO, Law in the Service of the Elderly (www.elderlaw.org.il), that is the first NGO of its kind in Israel that uses legal strategy to protect and promote the rights of older persons. As part of my activities in this NGO, I provide free legal information and advice to older persons. Furthermore, I give on a regular basis, lectures to older people in nursing homes, day centers, and old-age homes on a regular, voluntary basis. Finally, I am active on the board of the IGA, the Israeli Gerontological Association, as well as other national and international organizations.
