PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

September 2006 – present. Scholarly Communication and Special Initiatives Librarian.
University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Coordinate scholarly communication activities for the University Libraries by providing leadership and education to the university community about these issues and their impact on the nature and conduct of scholarly inquiry. Coordinate the design and implementation of a robust and innovative repository system in the University Library. Monitor project progress and evaluate results. Engage units across the campus in pursuit of strategic scholarly communication initiatives including the acquisition, management, and preservation of digital assets. Advocate use of technology for scholarly communication to faculty, staff, administrators, the public, and academic collaborators. Play an essential role in the integration of scholarly publishing technologies and processes with digital library development, especially related to repository developments. Oversee the development of scholarly communication applications with the development of other library applications. Work cooperatively and collaboratively with the Director of Libraries to conceptualize, actualize, and assess special initiatives. Investigate and promote the Library's involvement and position with various campus and consortial entities. Work with the appropriate parties, developing, scheduling, promoting and implementing library initiatives. Design and conduct programs as needed. Serve as a member of the Library's Senior Management Group. Maintain contacts with appropriate on-campus and off-campus agencies in order to maintain currency on new developments in appropriate technologies. Develop and maintain appropriate reports, documentation and records.

May 2004 – August 2006. Coordinator, Five College Cooperative Library Systems and Special Initiatives Librarian, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Highlights of Coordinator position: Coordinated and facilitated communication between the Five College Libraries and the integrated library system (ILS) vendor, and among the libraries in matters relating to the Five College Library System, its functionality and enhancements. Directed the utilization of the ILS software within the University Library. Worked cooperatively and collaboratively with other staff to coordinate ILS training with programs undertaken by the Five College Libraries. Advised management on how to make optimal use of system features. Supervised the configuration of ILS applications to reflect the decision of FCLC and the Five College Library committees. Coordinated the development of ILS applications with the development of other library applications.

July 1998 – April 2004. Coordinator and Head, Library Information Systems and Technology Services. University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Provided creative leadership and direction for the full array of information systems and technology used in the University Libraries. Directly managed all phases of library automation activities in the broad categories of operations, network interfaces, and user support in servicing existing library information systems. Served on the SFX open-linking implementation team. Formulated, disseminated, implemented and revised library technology policies and procedures as required. Managed and directed the Library's team of staff working in various library locations in operational support of systems implementation and workstation support. Provided direction and guidance for implementation of new and emerging technologies to be used in the Library's highly networked information environment. Collaborated with and provided system support for staff in areas of digital library initiatives and projects with continuing focus on scholarly communication and knowledge resources. Served on the Library's Senior Administrative Group and as the liaison with campus Office of Information Technology (OIT).

July 1989 - June 1998. Systems Librarian. Associate Professor, Keene State College, Keene, NH

Directed and managed library automation initiatives including the procurement and implementation of software / hardware; all enhancements and upgrades for the integrated online library system; coordination with the library automation vendor and equipment providers, the library staff members of Keene-Link (Keene State College and Keene Public Library), and the college community. Provided ongoing training and consultative expertise pertaining to Keene-Link. Participated on the library senior management team. Directed the operations of the Systems Office and supervised its employees. Coordinated technical implementation of electronic resources and web page development. Consulted with other librarians regarding support for microcomputer applications. Served as library liaison to several academic disciplines. Provided reference desk service on a weekly basis. Served on college, university system, and professional committees.

Feb.1989 - July 1989. Circulation Librarian / Audiovisual Coordinator. Franklin Pierce College, Rindge, New Hampshire.

Directed the Circulation Department including reserve book, interlibrary loan, and audiovisual services. Developed and administered circulation policies and procedures and coordinated campus-wide audiovisual service. Supervised three part-time Circulation Department Assistants. Provided occasional reference desk service.

Sept. 1985 - Feb. 1989. Assistant Catalog Librarian. Bates College, Lewiston, Maine.

Directed and managed the retrospective conversion and authority control projects. Supervised and performed original input and cataloging of monographs, government publications, sound recordings and video recordings on OCLC. Supervised Catalog Department Assistant. As member of Colby-Bates-Bowdoin (CBB) Library Automation Committee, reviewed Requests for Proposals (RFPs) from a variety of colleges, edited them to form an appropriate RFP. As chair of the CBB Hardware Evaluation Team, analyzed material from library automation vendors, determined final recommendation, and wrote final report to library directors. Participated in the CBB Database Management Working Group, formed to discuss the composition and viability of one versus three databases. Presented results to staff members of the three colleges. Negotiated with library automation vendor and equipment providers to obtain a library automation system and database.

This presentation, originally given as a presentation to University of Maine faculty and librarians February 14, 2008, has been published in the August 2008 revision of the peer-reviewed ACRL Scholarly Communication Toolkit “Promoting a Shared System of Research and Scholarship” <http://www.acrl.ala.org/scholcomm/node/12> [Accessed October 2, 2010]

MIRACLE Project (University of Michigan) <http://miracle.si.umich.edu/index.html> [Accessed October 2, 2010] After participating in the “Census of Institutional Repositories”, I was asked to be one of the case studies in the MIRACLE (Making Institutional Repositories A Collaborative Learning Environment) Project research funded by the IMLS: to identify models and best practices in the administration, technical infrastructure, and access to repository collections. UMass Amherst was the first site visit of their 5 model IRs, June 26-28, 2008. In her summary report, the PI Dr Soo Young Rieh stated: “The findings from the ScholarWorks case study helped us to broaden the scope of our case studies by including more diverse people who can talk about the future of digital libraries and open access movement” demonstrating that the work that we are doing is making an impact by changing IR research approaches.
