Course Objectives

As a course, marketing and social responsibility covers the ethical, regulatory and legal issues that surround marketing. Marketing and social responsibility is not about the fundamentals of marketing. It’s about what, as marketers, you can and cannot do in the eyes of federal and state laws and regulation as well as what you can and cannot do in good moral stead. “Good moral stead” will be defined individually as students work to define their beliefs of personal responsibility, corporate responsibility and ethical norms.

Course Requirements

Each student is required to take two exams, complete two homework assignments, five in-class assignments, and one team project that includes an in-class presentation.

All exams are worth approximately 75 points. A take-home midterm exam and a final exam will be given. The final is NOT cumulative in the sense that regulations learned in the first half of the semester will be covered on the final exam. However, students will be continually asked to define good business behavior based on personal opinions of personal responsibility, corporate responsibility and ethical norms.

The two homework assignments will be outlined in additional handouts. These assignments are worth 25 points each. Assignments are due at the beginning of class. Late assignments will not be accepted except in cases of extreme hardship. If something comes up that prevents you from turning in an assignment in a timely manner it is in your best interest to contact me immediately and convincingly.

In-class assignments are due during the class period in which they are assigned (thus in-class) and are worth 10 points each.

The team project will include researching a proactive corporation that sets global standards in social responsibility. Actual details will be outlined in additional handouts. The presentation portion of the project is worth 50 points. A written report of the information presented is also worth 100 points.

Attendance

Attendance and class participation are encouraged and expected, but ultimately are YOUR responsibility.

Irresponsible Behavior

Irresponsible behavior includes cheating and plagiarism as well as creating a hostile environment for your instructor and classmates. This behavior will not be tolerated by your instructor or the University. I strongly suggest that you do your own work, do it honestly and play nice.
