HIGHER DEGREE IN LAW

Ph.D. awarded from Bond University for 'The Regulation of the Franchise Sector in Australia: A Contractual Analysis' (February 2008). The dissertation combines theory with practical objectives. Supervisors were Professor Mary Hiscock and Professor Laurence Boule, both from the Faculty of Law, Bond University.

Reviewers' comments:

'... very well written and presented thesis which provides an original and valuable contribution to learning on the regulation of the franchise industry.' Professor Clive Turner

'...thoroughly researched, well informed and well written work. The writing style is very lucid and it flows convincingly.' Professor Stephen Coronos

'... a stimulating thesis that significantly challenges conventional wisdom in relation to the regulation of franchising. ... convincing and clearly articulated and well supported with examples. It will contribute significantly to the debate both in relation to the adequacy of regulation in the franchising field as well as more generally in relation to regulatory paradigms. It will also encourage greater efforts towards obtaining accurate information from the franchising sector and to this extent enhance the potential for future research in the field of franchising.' Reviewer's name withheld

PUBLICATIONS & RESEARCH

Books and Chapters in Books

Elizabeth Spencer, Editor and author of introduction to, Relational Rights and Responsibilities: Perspectives on Contractual Arrangements in Franchising, Bond University Press, 2011.

Elizabeth Spencer, 'Consequences of the Interaction of Standard Form and Relational Contracting in Franchising', Relational Rights and Responsibilities: Perspectives on Contractual Arrangements in Franchising, Bond University Press, 2011.

Elizabeth Spencer, The Regulation of Franchising in the New Global Economy, Edward Elgar, 2010.

This book examines the theory and practice of regulation in the context of the franchise sector. It provides a detailed analysis of the theory and practice of regulation of the sector, and presents a global survey and comparative analysis of franchise regulation in 30 countries. The book received praise in the academic community as well as among practitioners:

'Dr. Spencer has performed a valuable service to the international franchising community in writing this book. ... [her] comprehensive survey of franchise regulation globally and her conceptual analysis of the regulatory tools applied makes a very important contribution to the regulatory debate.' Andrew Terry, Professor of Business Regulation, University of Sydney.

The book is 'refreshing' in its approach, 'rather than merely examining the law as it is, [it] considers how it should be, something few other texts even attempt.' The author 'argues strongly for proper rules to regulate franchising ... well-researched and convincing...the book is interesting and well-thought out.' Queen Mary Journal of Intellectual Property, Vol.1 , No. 1.

'It is heavy, not in weight, but in substance. It has use for the practitioner, but its real intrigue and significance lie in its discussion of franchise regulation throughout the world, both in terms of the practical and theoretical.' Franchise Law Journal, Winter 2013.

Named by bluemaumau.org as one of 'Six Books Every Franchise Regulator and Lawmaker Should Read'.

Research-related conference organisation

Co-chair with Professor Lorelle Frazer, Griffith University, and Associate Professor Jenny Buchan, UNSW, of the 24th Annual International Society of Franchising Conference, Sydney 2010. This was the third time in the history of the Society that the annual conference was held outside the United States. The conference in Australia enhanced the goodwill of the host universities, Bond, Griffith and the University of New South Wales.

Convenor and Co-Chair of the Bond University Faculty of Law and The School of Business Law and Taxation in the Australian School of Business at the University of New South Wales Franchise Law Colloquium, 21 November 2008. This event, the first of its kind in Australia, was conceived, organized and carried out by myself with Professor Andrew Terry. Leading practitioners and academics from throughout Australia and from the US included Professor Stephen Coronos of QUT School of Law; Warren Pengilley, former commissioner of the ACCC and special counsel to Deacons; Penny Ward, partner with Baker and McKenzie and Head of the International Franchise Association Legal Section; and Rupert Barkoff and Andrew Selden, partners with Briggs Morgan and Kilpatrick Stockton, respectively, and authors of Fundamentals of Franchising, now in its 2nd edition.

'It was a great success largely due to your hard work and planning...The speakers all had the right level of expertise to generate some spirited debate and it was a good mix of academics and practitioners.' Professor Stephen Coronos, Queensland University of Technology.

'I thoroughly enjoyed the colloquium and the opportunity to interact with knowledgeable people in such a concentrated, focused environment. Communication about the event, social events and facilities...were all organized in a highly professional manner.' Heather Forrest, Australian Catholic University.

'It was a really worthwhile exercise.... I appreciate it was a big job to organize it...but it would be great if you could do it again.' Penny Ward, Partner, Baker and McKenzie.

Research grants

Co-researcher (with Francina Cantatore) 2013 Bond University Vice-Chancellor's Grant for 'The management of intellectual property in small and medium third sector enterprises in Australia' and the Pacific region.’ This research has resulted in one published article, another article in progress, and a planned external grant application.

Principal researcher 2012 Bond University Vice-Chancellor’s Grant for ‘The Evolving Legal Landscape of Cross-Border Grant Procurement.’ This has resulted in two conference presentations, a completed paper still to be published, collaboration on a book chapter, and collaboration on a grant application for further research.

Awarded Bond University Faculty of Law Research Grants in the years 2006-2010, all resulting in journal articles and conference papers.

Recipient of 2008 Bond University Vice-Chancellor’s Grant for ‘The Roles of Trade Associations in Regulatory Process: A Case Study of the Franchise Sector.’ This research formed the basis of a conference presentation published in the proceedings of the 23rd Annual International Society of Franchising Conference, San Diego, February 2009. It also provides a foundation for further research into the roles of trade associations in the governance of commercial enterprise.

Research program

My research integrates several themes:

Contracts and Governance: I am interested in contractual relationships as frameworks for governance, particularly in the context of rapid and significant technological developments in contract formation and interpretation. My exploration of the regulation of contracts as both tools and objects of governance has implications in other disciplines and in law for contracts, dispute resolution, competition law, consumer law, intellectual property and employment.

Third sector governance: In recent years I have channelled my interest in contractual relationships in the direction of the governance of third sector relationships. I have been collaborating with colleagues in Australia and overseas on two research projects, one on the treatment of non-profit entities in competition law, the other an investigation of the strategic management of intellectual property in the non-profit sector.

Development cooperation and the regulation of civil society organizations: The third theme in my research integrates concepts of contracting and governance in commercial contexts with those of third sector governance. To ensure access to secure financial resources and so the survival of third sector initiatives by local NGOs in developing countries, legal structures and contractual arrangements must be designed to meet the dynamic and complex conditions of funding and collaboration, while at the same time respecting and reinforcing the evolving mission and brand of the enterprise. I have surveyed legal structures and contractual arrangements among third sector organizations in developing countries to assess the extent to which legal agreements are shaped by exigencies of funding, and to evaluate how these legal arrangements may impact upon processes of capacity-building among local NGOs. This work has resulted in one published article, while empirical research in contracting in development cooperation channels is ongoing.

LEARNING & TEACHING

Subjects Taught

I have a solid record of course coordination across a diversity of subjects, with extensive experience in course design and development of law subjects for business students. I have tutored, designed, coordinated and/or lectured in:

- Australian Legal System
- Business Associations
- Business Law
- Constitutional Law
- Contemporary Issues in Law and Society
- Contract Law
- False or Misleading Conduct and the Economic Torts
- Franchising and Small Business
- Intensive Executive MBA Business Law
- Introduction to the Australian Legal System
- Introduction to the Law of Cross-Border Transactions
- The Law of Commercial Entities
- Topics in Australian Law (for Japanese students)
- Tort Law

Student and peer evaluation of teaching

My ability as a teacher is evidenced in part by student evaluation results included as an addendum to this document, which illustrate student satisfaction with my teaching in relation to structure, content, interactive teaching style, feedback and assessment. Peer evaluations also reflect a high level of teaching performance.

Legal skills education

Laws 104 - Intensive skills training for first year law students at ACU in legal research and writing. Business Associations at Bond University incorporated an interviewing skills component, client-interviewing problems (similar to a case study), with assessment of students' performance in 20-minute mock client-interviewing sessions.

Teaching conferences and education

- Law Capstone Experience Forum at Queensland University of Technology (2012)
- Bond University Faculty of Law Centre for Commercial Law Teaching and Learning Roundtable, Hanoi, Vietnam (2011)
- International Society of Franchising conference in San Diego panel on franchising education (2009)
- Participated in the production of Beyond Awareness, a video on teaching international students.

EXCERPTS FROM STUDENT COMMENTS & PEER REVIEWS OF TEACHING PERFORMANCE

I have always enjoyed excellent relationships with students, based on respect and care. I work diligently to ensure the best possible educational experience. Last year the first year law students at ACU North Sydney wanted to ensure that I and another lecturer would return for another year, and initiated a petition on change.org. I only became aware of this petition after the fact. The following message was one of many posted by a student; there were about 57 such messages.

Professor Crawford-Spencer is the best lecturer we have seen with her teaching method encouraging us to go further than what is required!

Emails from students at ACU

I have had the good fortune to have received several emails of appreciation from students in North Sydney -the following is an example.

Tue 14/10/2014 3:00 PM

Hi Liz

I just wanted to send you an e-mail to let you know exactly how much you are missed this Semester, not being involved in any Lectures, Tutorials, Workshops and/or Seminars for LAWS107 & LAWS108. I don't know if you realise how much the students really have missed your interaction and the support you provide us. I have especially notice this when you attend seminars held in the moot court with the students comments I have heard. We certainly do miss everything you bring to the table as a lecturer and the representative of the students, as coordinator. Your open door philosophy, even though you are in Melbourne two days of the week, is appreciated. Your ability to interact and identify with students is phenomenal and should be acknowledged. So in essence, I just want to let you know that you are a vital part of ACU in undertaking my Bachelor of Laws.

Cheers

E-mails from students (unsolicited)

Business Law Lecture/Tutorial Semester 123

'Dear Liz,

I'm not really good at thanksgiving, but I want to express my highest appreciation for the work you've done last semester in our Business Law class. Nowadays, it's quite difficult to find a person putting his whole soul into something, moreover, into teaching other, most often, unwilling kids some not-that-easy material.

Your whole effort and the way of teaching had profound impact on my studies particularly. It wouldn't be an exaggeration to say that but for you I wouldn't get even half the understanding of the course. I wish there were more professors like you in my future studies and life in general.

Thank you!' (Wed 20 Feb 2013)

'Dear Dr. Liz

*How are you? And how your family? I hope all of you fine and healthy, and let me to admit you that I really miss your teaching, I know this is life, but you taught me a lot of things and one of these is how I can challenge myself, and you gave the positive thinking to encourage myself not only for my study....Dr. Liz, it's my pleasure to know a person like you. You are so humble .
My best regards to my best teacher ( Dr. Liz Spencer)' (2 Feb 2013)*

Introduction to the Law of Cross-Border Transactions Semester 072

'One of the speakers said that Bond law school is the best in Australia, due to having the best professors... Thanks for teaching!!!'

Franchising Law Seminar Semester 112

'Thank you so much Liz... It means a lot coming from someone like yourself who I enjoy watching and learning from so much. I am so pleased you enjoyed what I have prepared. Your feedback motivates me more than you can now at the time that I needed most.'

Contemporary issues Semester 102

'I would just like to say I really enjoyed the subject and your teaching style. It's definitely in my top 5 so far. I thoroughly enjoyed our group and the tutorials. Bond needs more teachers/professors like you!'

Excerpt from unsolicited letter from a former student in Business Law Semester 042:

'I thought the way you taught the lecture was excellent, I especially like the way you encourage students to take part in this tutorial. From a student perspective it forces you to do your homework and understand or at least attempt the prescribed material. I appreciated your unpretentious disposition and teaching methods. In particular I enjoyed watching you formulating responses to class questions, this gave an invaluable insight into how lawyers think, and more importantly how intricate the law is and goes some way to explaining the methodology behind decisions etc.'

Peer Reviews

Peer Review by Assistant Professor Maureen Klar, Contemporary Issues in Law and Society, 30 November 2008

'Liz had an exceptionally thorough knowledge of the subject matter and her understanding of the topic came through in her very practical applications of philosophical concepts which also made the lecture material easy to understand...used role play very effectively...relaxing the class through her use of humour. Her enthusiasm for the topic also came through...the class engaged eagerly.'

Peer review by Associate Professor Bobette Wolski, Business Law, Friday, 13 June 2003

'You are poised and articulate... You did not refer to notes but focused instead on your audience. You project and maintain a high level of energy throughout your presentation.... You interacted with your students throughout the lecture by referring to students by name, by moving towards them, by asking questions, and by inviting in answering questions yourself. You were professional in your attitude, but also friendly and approachable.

The material covered in the lecture consisted of an appropriate blend of information, cases, definitions and examples (this was an excellent selection of material).

The real strength in your teaching lies in the clarity of your explanations, in particular, of case law. You were able to relate facts of cases in the rulings of the court in simple, easy to understand terms.... You actually made case law interesting.... You were able to answer all questions with a great deal of clarity.... You presented with energy and enthusiasm... You balanced openness to questions to give a structured and controlled teaching experience. The class appreciated your sense of humor. They enjoyed listening to many of the examples you provided... You are well organized and thoroughly prepared, professional and engaging in your manner.'
