That's the Spirit-St. Kateri Tekakwitha

Gerald F. Reid, Sacred Heart University
Dr. Gerald Reid Featured on ‘That’s The Spirit’: Archdiocese of Hartford’s ORTV

Dr. Gerald Reid

News Story: June 1, 2012

Dr. Gerald Reid, professor of Anthropology at Sacred Heart University, was recently interviewed on ‘That’s the Spirit’, a program produced by the Archdiocese of Hartford’s Office of Radio and Television (ORTV), about the Native American Kateri Tekakwitha, who will be canonized in October.

Go to the ORTV streaming video landing page for ‘That’s the Spirit: Kateri Tekakwitha’ to view Dr. Reid's interview (http://dv2.discovervideo.com/play/?vod=1158). Original air date: June 10, 1912.

Gerald F. Reid, Professor of Anthropology, BA, MA, PhD University of Massachusetts, MA, University of Chicago. Dr. Reid's current research interests focus on political and cultural developments among the Iroquois in the 19th and 20th centuries. His recently published book Kahnawake: Factionalism, Traditionalism, and Nationalism in a Mohawk Community (Nebraska, 2004) examines political and cultural development in the Mohawk community of Kahnawake between 1870 and 1940. His teaching responsibilities include introductory courses in cultural anthropology, North American Indians, Native American literature, and social issues and social change. Dr. Reid has been a member of the Sociology Program faculty at Sacred Heart University since 1989.