Death Sentence for the British Royal Family

Kedar Joshi
Death Sentence for the British Royal Family

The Conviction:

You—the adult members of the British monarchy—are found culpable of knowingly inheriting and exploiting colossal amount of stolen wealth which came from unrelenting loot, murder and robbery made by the governments of the British Empire which mainly comprised of housebreakers, megalomaniacs, xenophobes, chicken-hearted tiger-hunters, and rapists, who induced unfathomable humiliation, suffering and cruelty to a vast number of immensely honourable and selfless human beings, such as the Indian independence activists and their families. The looters came, they looted and they went back. But instead of giving the loot back to the millions of looted victims—for the real Commonwealth, for the common good—you seem to thrive on the bloody loot in full awareness. You were expected to live like ordinary men and women, ordinary as you are. But you rather seem to represent and glorify the looters and the (true) terrorists—the imperious rulers, such as Queen Victoria—the symbol of the British Empire. The loot was never returned. The looters went unpunished. You inherited the monstrous loot and you inherited the horrendous crime. Justice has not been done. Consequently, you are found worthy of profoundly torturous punishment which shall result in your death. If you are given mere life imprisonment or death by hanging, it would be a sheer mockery of justice. In fact, the knowing and willful possession of stolen goods—when the act of stealing begot such repulsive atrocities which even the Devil would be ashamed of—is itself sufficient to put you in an extremely special category of felons.
The Death Sentence:

Every convicted member of the British monarchy is deemed a parasite, in fact Parasite of the Most Excellent Order.

The object of the punishment is threefold:

1. Utilization of the parasites’ somas as well as their properties for the welfare of the downtrodden and the needy from the former British colonies
2. Infliction of dreadful torture on the parasites
3. Death of the parasites

An example of the punishment is given below. This example is mainly focused on the punishment of the parasite Catherine Elizabeth—aka Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge—who is the epitome of British hypocrisy.

First of all, every parasite shall have their property confiscated. Every parasite shall wear a prison uniform. Every parasite shall remain in handcuffs and fetters till their death, except when they are at service such as undergoing surgery in a British hospital to donate a body part. Every surgery shall be made by a qualified surgeon strictly of English origin. Didn’t the imperial parasites make an Indian to whip a fellow Indian just so that their own hands did not get dirty? A failure in compliance shall result in strikingly harsher punishments such as infliction of nonlethal, pain-inducing electric shocks on the nether regions of the parasite.

Every male parasite shall first be deprived of his manhood through bilateral orchiectomy—surgical castration resulting in the removal of the testes. This shall hopefully enlighten him as to how many men must have lost their manhood through insufferable inanition within the walls of the manly empire. The removed testes may then be used for testicle transplant on the poor and needy men from the former colonies.

In the Garden at Buckingham Palace, the British monarch—the chief parasite—shall ascend her true throne: The Donkey. All other parasites—except Catherine Elizabeth—shall be seated on the ground. Catherine Elizabeth shall be required to provide sex service to the neediest of men—young as well as old, handsome as well as hideous, neurotic as well as brute, gentle as well as harsh—from the former colonies whose history is laden with rape and shame. She shall be placed naked in a newly and purposely built air conditioned chamber right at the centre of the garden. A team of English sexperts shall supervise the event. I myself shall personally lead the team. The event may last for quite a few days or even months. Let Catherine Elizabeth—who is an eminent representative of imperial rapists—experience the true savagery of rape.
At the end of the event, Catherine Elizabeth shall be taken to a British hospital for receiving the remaining punishment which shall be given to her in distinct sessions. Every session shall be live-televised to every other parasite, especially her husband William Arthur Philip Louis, aka Prince William, Duke of Cambridge. After every session she shall be paraded on the streets of London along with her castrated husband in prison uniform. Sufficient rest, medication, food and nutrition shall be given to her in order to make her fit for the next session. Appropriate anesthesia shall be administered to her in each and every session of surgery.

In the first session, she shall undergo nephrectomy—the surgical removal of a kidney. In the second session, she shall donate a portion of her liver. In the third session, one of her eyes shall be removed. In the fourth session, she shall donate her bone marrow. The fifth session shall be hysterectomy—the surgical removal of the uterus, ovaries, etc. for uterine transplant. The remaining sessions shall focus on the collection of keratin, collagen and elastin from various parts of her body—such as hair, skin, ears, teeth, fingers and limbs—which shall be surgically removed one by one through individual sessions over a very long period of time—a finger today, a tooth tomorrow, an ear the day after, and so on. The collected material shall be used for beauty treatments on the young and needy women from the former colonies. She may be required to undergo an extra session for mastectomy—the surgical removal of one or both breasts—provided the removed material could prove to be of benefit for a human or a nonhuman being.

I hope the lawfully induced agony will make her realize that the law is quite indifferent to politically motivated worldwide displays of compassionate innocence. I also hope that the moments of intense depression and agony will be good enough to give her some taste of the degree of brutality the British monarchy once committed to thousands and millions of its colonial subjects. When she will be robbed of her ovaries and uterus, she might get some better understanding of the plight of wasted womanhood as men languished in the empire’s prisons. A surge of enormous enervation shall teach her the horrors of dictated malnourishment and overwork merrily endured by those who were in the prime of their youth. It is not the royal visits to the slums of Mumbai but the loss of sight which will open her eyes to the helplessness of a child plagued by imperial famines. Whenever she will sob for her soon-to-be orphaned children, she may then as well feel for the little ones from the remote past whose parents succumbed to the evils of British opportunism. The last session shall remove her second kidney. Death shall be imminent. Catherine Elizabeth shall then visit the former colonies via British Airways in the form of separate body parts. This time however her visit will make some real sense.

The members of the British Armed Forces who swear to defend the British monarchy are also found guilty. However, they shall be awarded relatively mild punishment—surgical removal of one hand (the right hand of the righty, the left hand of the lefty), one leg, one eye, and bilateral orchiectomy for men and oophorectomy—the surgical removal of ovaries—for women. The civilians conferred with a British order of chivalry—such as MBE (Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire)—may be spared from orchiectomy and oophorectomy. But no one who swears allegiance to the British monarch will be spared from punishment, though individual circumstances shall certainly be taken into account in deciding the form and the level of punishment.

Some of the members of the British Armed Forces as well as some of the members of the British monarchy—such as Charles, Prince of Wales and Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall—may be selected to undergo a vast variety of medical experimentation for the welfare of humanity—such as an experimentation to investigate how neuroleptic-induced acute akathisia responds to stimulants like armodafinil. The Prince of Wales and his spouse may additionally be put to tasks involving cleaning of public sanitation facilities in any of the former colonies. They may eventually be hanged in public. The British monarch shall ideally be given death only after witnessing the torture and the death of every other member of the monarchy. And as for the other hideous parasites like Queen Victoria, Edward VII, George V, George VI, etc., I wish I could bring them back from the dead and punish them with incalculable humiliation and harrowing death. All required measures and precautions shall nevertheless be taken to ensure that not even a hair on the head of a single innocent individual—male or female, English or Scottish, white or black—is harmed.

You think the punishment meted out to you is barbaric? Indeed it is barbaric. But it is infinitely better than the mercenary, chauvinistic and inequitable barbarism attemptedly concealed under the delusive ideals of culture and civilization. The barbaric punishment will be given to you openly, under the exalted Sun, right at the heart of your imposing capital, and not on some remote, destitute island, in inhuman, solitary existence. You think the punishment resembles the punishments from the Dark Ages? It certainly does. But you yourself also resemble the people from the Dark Ages, don’t you? The Modern Ages stand for democracy. You stand for monarchy. You have blood on your hands—blood and sweat, tears and curses—of countless innocent, beautiful and promising men, women and children. The blood is dead. But the curses are alive.
You shall serve the sentence in due course of time. You may walk as free men and women till your service begins. But remember I have an eye on you. You will meet your doom. There is no escape, mark my words. Finally I believe the punishment will give some justice to the departed souls whose terrifying screams of pain once reverberated in the darkest dungeons of mindless brutality and imperialist arrogance.

The Lord Chief Justice

The Divine Courts of Justice
Select bibliography

1. Republic (political organisation) website (https://republic.org.uk/)
2. The British Royal Family website (https://www.royal.uk/)
3. Victoria (r. 1837-1901), royal.uk (https://www.royal.uk/victoria-r-1837-1901)
4. From a mute witness to a National Memorial (http://www.andamans.gov.in/html/cellular.html)
6. CELLULAR JAIL :WITNESS TO GORY SUFFERINGS OF FREEDOM FIGHTERS, by O.N. Jaiswal (http://pib.nic.in/feature/feyr98/fe0898/f1808987.html)
7. Cellular Jail - A National Memorial..., (http://db.and.nic.in/cellularjail/home.html)
9. The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge (From 10th to 16th April 2016 The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge made an Official visit to India and Bhutan), by The British Monarchy (https://www.flickr.com/photos/britishmonarchy/sets/72157666749087890)
12. HOW THE BRITISH RUINED INDIA, by Dr. V.V. Bedekar, V.Y.Sardesai (http://www.srimatham.com/uploads/5/5/4/9/5549439/how_the_british_ruined_india_.pdf)

19. “The British Government in India has not only deprived the Indian people of their freedom, but has debased it economically, politically, culturally, and spiritually. We believe that India must sever the British connection and attain purna swarajya, or complete independence...We hold it to be a crime against man and God to submit any longer to the rule that has caused this disaster to our country.” – Indian National Congress, “Independence Day Resolution,” January 20, 1930. Cited in The British Empire, ed. Jane Sampson. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2001, 245-246

20. “India was the motherland of our race, and Sanskrit the mother of Europe's languages: she was the mother of our philosophy; mother, through the Arabs, of much of our mathematics; mother, through the Buddha, of the ideals embodied in Christianity; mother, through the village community, of self-government and democracy. Mother India is in many ways the mother of us all.” – Will Durant, The Case for India (1931)

21. “No Indian ever went outside his own country on a warlike expedition, so righteous were they.” – Arrian, Anabasis Alexandri, Book VII : Indica, as translated by Edgar Iliff Robson (1929), p. 18

22. “Among the many misdeeds of the British rule in India, history will look upon the Act depriving a whole nation of arms as the blackest.” – Mahatma Gandhi, "An Autobiography OR The story of my experiments with truth", Chapter 27, Recruiting Campaign, from a leaflet urging Indians to serve with the British Army in World War II.

23. “If I were asked under what sky the human mind has most fully developed some of its choicest gifts, has most deeply pondered over the greatest problems of life, and has found solutions of some of them which well deserve the attention even of those who have studied Plato and Kant, I should point to India. And if I were to ask myself from what literature we who have been nurtured almost exclusively on the thoughts of Greeks and Romans, and of the Semitic race, the Jewish, may draw the corrective which is most wanted in order to make our inner life more perfect, more comprehensive, more universal, in fact more truly human a life... again I should point to India.” – Friedrich Max Müller, India, What Can It Teach Us (1882) Lecture IV

24. “India is the cradle of the human race, the birthplace of human speech, the mother of history, the grandmother of legend, the great-grandmother of tradition, whose yesterdays bear date with the mouldering antiquities of the rest of the nations...the one land that all men desire to see, and having seen once, by even a glimpse, would not give that glimpse for the shows of all the rest of the globe combined.” – Mark Twain, Following the Equator (1897), Ch. XXXVIII

25. “The Portuguese, Dutch and English have been for a long time year after year, shipping home the treasures of India in their big vessels. We Germans have been all along been left to watch it. Germany would do likewise, but hers would be treasures of spiritual knowledge.” – Heinrich Heine, India and World Civilization By D. P. Singhal - Pan Macmillan Limited. 1993 part II p. 234 and 327

27. “But where says some is the King of America? I'll tell you Friend, he reigns above, and doth not make havoc of mankind like the Royal Brute of Britain.” – Thomas Paine, as quoted in Common Sense (1776).

28. “He—George III of the United Kingdom—has waged cruel war against human nature itself, violating its most sacred rights of life and liberty in the persons of a distant people who never offended him, captivating and carrying them into slavery in an other hemisphere, or to incur miserable death in their transportation thither.” – Thomas Jefferson, Declaration of Independence of the United States of America (1776). Known as the "anti-slavery clause", this section drafted by Thomas Jefferson was removed from the Declaration at the behest of representatives of South Carolina.

29. “The British monarchy inculcates unthinking credulity and servility. It forms a heavy layer on the general encrustation of our unreformed political institutions. It is the gilded peg from which our unlovely system of social distinction and hierarchy depends. It is an obstacle to the objective public discussion of our own history. It tribalises politics. It entrenches the absurdity of the hereditary principle. It contributes to what sometimes looks like an enfeeblement of the national intelligence, drawing from our press and even from some of our poets the sort of degrading and abnegating propaganda that would arouse contempt if displayed in Zaire or Romania. It is, in short, neither dignified nor efficient.” – Christopher Hitchens, The Monarchy: A Critique of Britain's Favourite Fetish (1990), Random House.

30. “People in England are the most illiterate in the developed world with many students graduating with only a basic grasp of English and math.” – Brendan Cole, "Young people in England have 'lowest literacy levels' in developed world says OECD" (29 January 2016), International Business Times, United Kingdom.

31. “So I went to the top lady. And I was sobbing and I said, ‘What do I do? I'm coming to you. What do I do?'... And she said, ‘I don't know what you should do. Charles is hopeless.' And that was it. That was help! So I didn't go back to her again for help because I don't go back again if I don't get it the first time, right.” – Diana, Princess of Wales to voice coach Peter Settelen in 1992, as quoted in Tapes reveal more from Princess Diana: NBC News exclusive: Inside the life of the late icon, NBC News, November 30, 2004

32. “Myself, I wish her well and also wish I could whisper to her: If you really love him, honey, get him out of there, and yourself, too. Many of us don't want or need another sacrificial lamb to water the dried bones and veins of a dessicated system. Do yourself a favor and save what you can: Leave the throne to the awful next incumbent that the hereditary principle has mandated for it.” – Christopher Hitchens, Beware the In-Laws: Does Kate Middleton really want to marry into a family like this?, Slate, April. 18, 2011

33. “Great Britain is India’s enemy, not friend. Great Britain is a great thief who once broke into the Indian house, stole gigantic amounts of valuable stuff, tortured, humiliated and butchered incalculable, innocent people, and simply went back. If someone breaks into my house with weapons and armour, grabs my wealth and my possessions, rapes my wife and my sisters, kills my brothers and my uncles, and goes away, will I just be content and celebrate my freedom from the thief or will I rush after the thief, get all of my stuff back, and make sure the thief is punished and get justice??” – Kedar Joshi