

CURRICULUM VITAE*

David Layne Coppock

Title, Address, and Contact Details: Professor of Human-Environment Systems, Department of Environment and Society, Quinney College of Natural Resources (QCNr), 5215 Old Main Hill, Utah State University (USU), Logan, UT, 84322-5215. Phone: (435) 797-1262; Fax: (435)797-4048; E-mail: Layne.Coppock@usu.edu

Summary: Dr. D. Layne Coppock was formally educated as an ecologist with an emphasis on rangeland ecosystems and large herbivores (i.e., bison, cattle, camels, sheep, goats) in the western United States and northwestern Kenya. His subsequent professional experiences in Ethiopia, Utah, Bolivia, Kenya, Nepal, Tanzania, Uganda, and Namibia have helped transform him into an interdisciplinary scholar with a focus on human problem-solving in pastoral, ranching, and small-farm settings. Dr. Coppock's work currently includes themes such as reduction of poverty among rangeland dwellers, assessing rangeland management interventions, empowerment of rural women, risk management for pastoralists and ranchers, drought preparedness, and community response to climate change and invasive species.

His research incorporates social and biophysical science methods as well as action-oriented, community engagement. He has authored or coauthored 70 peer-reviewed publications and book chapters (in print or in press, with two papers in Science), 129 proceedings papers, research reports, research briefs, and popular articles, 164 conference presentations and posters, two project synthesis volumes (one as the sole author and another as the lead co-editor with extensive writing duties), and was the creative force and lead editor for a special issue of Rangelands (2013) concerning women as change agents in the world's dry lands. Dr. Coppock currently has a Hirsch index of 23 and the 6,484 total downloads of non-copyrighted research and outreach outputs via the Digital Commons at USU (as of October, 2016) ranks among the highest of all USU faculty. Dr. Coppock has supervised the research of 20 graduate students and three post-doctoral associates while at two institutions, with 13 graduate students formally supervised while at USU. He has also mentored 53 junior colleagues or students on a less formal basis worldwide, and this includes helping them co-author 73 publications.

Dr. Coppock has served as the lead PI (principal investigator) for three large research projects while at USU, one in a two-year stint in the synthesis phase of the SR/GL-CRSP in the Bolivian highlands, another covering 12 years with the GL-CRSP (PARIMA project) in Kenya and Ethiopia, and another three-year assignment in Ethiopia with the Feed the Future/Livestock Innovation Lab. He has also recently served as a co-PI with a Feed the Future/Livestock Innovation Lab project in Nepal and a USDA-NIFA project in Cache Valley, Utah; both of these three-year projects originated at USU. Upon arrival at USU in 1991 Dr. Coppock became a co-PI with the aforementioned Bolivia project for three years. Besides these mega-project involvements, Dr. Coppock has played important roles in 11 smaller projects. Dr. Coppock has procured about US $8.9 million dollars in extramural and intramural funding in support of research, outreach, and training while at USU, with 81% as the lead PI. He has been a PI with the Utah Agricultural Experiment Station continuously since 1991, and this has allowed him to pursue domestic research in the Intermountain West.

For teaching, Dr. Coppock has taught 16 different courses at USU from 1992-2016. Current course topics include global perspectives on people and the environment for undergraduates, human dimensions of natural resource management for undergraduates, and a graduate orientation seminar. Topics previously taught have included graduate courses on theory, methods, and applications for human dimensions of ecosystem research, quantitative assessment for natural resource management, range vegetation analysis, and the nutritional ecology of range herbivores.

Since 2011 Dr. Coppock has been a faculty advisor for the under-graduate Environmental Studies major, one of the largest in the QCNR. Distinct service contributions (over 40) have included a variety of on- and off-campus assignments, with the large majority occurring since 2001. Dr. Coppock served as the interim associate dean for the QCNR for 2010-11. He has served on 27 USU committees dealing with faculty searches, faculty promotion and tenure, graduate and under-graduate affairs, and the Institutional Review Board (IRB). In terms of off-campus service, Dr. Coppock has been actively involved in the International Affairs Committee (IAC) of the Society for Range Management, serving as chair in 1997-8 and 2014-5.

Dr. Coppock has been fortunate to have received professional recognition for his efforts. During 2016 he has been appointed to two prestigious national and international research committees out of Washington DC. In 2015 he won two research awards, one on a global scale from USAID for the 12-year GL-CRSP PARIMA project he directed in Ethiopia and Kenya, and the other a career award (regional scale) from a professional society in Ethiopia concerning his 35 years of work in eastern Africa (1980-2015). In 2014 Dr. Coppock received national recognition (“gold”) as the lead author of the outstanding paper in a professional journal for 2013 from a major US editorial and publishing association. At the local scale, he has been named Faculty Advisor of the Year (2004) and Researcher of the Year (2012) for the College of Natural Resources. Dr. Coppock gave the plenary keynote address at the IX International Rangeland Congress in Argentina (2011) and was a co-recipient of a team gold medal for meritorious service to Ethiopia in 2007 that occurred in the context of the GL-CRSP PARIMA project. Early in his career a 1994 book solely authored by Dr. Coppock (“The Borana Plateau of Southern Ethiopia...”) was a finalist for the 1994 King Baudouin Prize (Belgium) in International Agriculture. This volume was based on work conducted while he was a staff scientist at the International Livestock Center for Africa (ILCA) prior to his arrival at USU. At 518 citations, this book is the most-cited work in Dr. Coppock’s career and it is still actively used as a scholarly resource.

Education:

1985	Ph.D., International Animal Science, Colorado State University
1981	M.S., Wildlife Biology, Colorado State University
1977	B.S., Zoology, Colorado State University

Professional Experience:

2013-	Professor, Utah State University
1996-2012	Associate Professor, Utah State University
2011-2012	Faculty Advisor, Environmental Studies Degree, Utah State University
2010-2011	Interim Associate Dean, Utah State University
2000	Visiting Fellow, Institute of Development Studies at the University of Sussex, United Kingdom (USU sabbatical leave)
1991-1996	Assistant Professor, Utah State University, Logan
1985-1991	Research Scientist and Team Leader, International Livestock Center for Africa (CGIAR System), Addis Ababa, Ethiopia
1978-1985	Graduate Research Assistant, Natural Resource Ecology Laboratory, Colorado State University, Fort Collins

Selected Awards and Recognition (Post-PhD):

2016	Appointed as one of 70 members of eight working groups addressing “ The Challenge of Change: Engaging Public Universities to Feed the World ,” a 2050 Global Food Security Initiative coordinated under the auspices of the Association of Public & Land Grant Universities (APLU), Washington DC (four-month term that began in August, 2016.) http://www.aplu.org/projects-and-initiatives/international-programs/challenge-of-change/ http://www.aplu.org/projects-and-initiatives/international-programs/challenge-of-change/challenge-of-change-working-groups/
2016	Appointed as one of 15 members of the inaugural Animal Agriculture Advisory Council of the Foundation for Food and Agricultural Research , Washington DC (three-year term that began in April, 2016.) http://foundationfar.org/challenge/ http://foundationfar.org/advisory-councils/#animal
2016	Nominated, D. Wynne Thorne Career Research Award. Office of Research and Graduate Studies, Utah State University.

CURRENT GRANT PROPOSALS IN PREPARATION

- 2016-7 D.L. Coppock, J. Young, and others: Expansion of Urban Hyena Populations in Ethiopia: Influences on Human Welfare and Ecosystem Services. To be submitted to the program in Coupled Human and Natural Systems, National Science Foundation. Projected funding request of $1,000,000.

NOTABLE GRANT AND PROJECT SUCCESSES

Externally Funded Grants and Contracts at USU (1991-2016):

Total funds procured as PI:	$5,847,085.00 (78%)
Total funds procured as co-PI:	$1,652,146.00 (22%)
Total funds procured overall:	$7,499,231.00 (100%)

- 2016-2017 D.L. Coppock (major professor) with Thomas Derr (graduate student). Climate change perceptions and adaptation among small-scale farmers in Uganda: A community based approach. Funding sources: United States Peace Corps and Eco-Agric, Uganda. Funding estimated as $2,000 (cash and in-kind) for student stipend support and project operations in Hoima District, Uganda. [Derr is a USU student in the Peace Corps Masters International (PCMI) program].
- 2014-2015 D.L. Coppock (collaborator) with Christopher Gustafson, Elizabeth Van Wormer, et al.: Strengthening Tanzanian Livestock Health, Pastoralist Nutrition, and Livelihoods in a Changing Climate. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau, Livestock and Climate Change Collaborative Research Support Program (later renamed the Feed the Future Livestock and Climate Change Innovation Lab). Funding of $8,000 for eight months in a project amendment.
- 2012-2015 D.L. Coppock (PI) with DeeVon Bailey, Brien Norton, et al.: Sustainable Pastoralism on the Borana Plateau: An Innovation Systems Approach. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau, Livestock and Climate Change Collaborative Research Support Program (later renamed the Feed the Future Livestock and Climate Change Innovation Lab). Funding of $500,000. Total funds = $500,000
- 2012-2015 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Rob Gillies (USU PI) et al.: Climate and Risk Assessment to Engender Resiliency and Capacity Building in Livestock Systems and Nutrition in Far Western Nepal. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau, Livestock and Climate Change Collaborative Research Support Program (later renamed the Feed the Future Livestock and Climate Change Innovation Lab). Funding for the participatory research component I directed was $33,600. Total funds = $449,986
- 2011-2014 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Juan Villalba (USU PI) et al.: Using New Knowledge on Grazing Behavior to Control Medusahead in the Western United States. Funding source: USDA National Initiative for Food and Agriculture (NIFA). Funding for the participatory research component which I directed was $54,000. Total funds =

$416,000

- 2005-2006 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Scott Miller (U. Wyo. PI) et al.: Constraints to the adoption of improved land-management practices among small-holder farmers in the River Njoro watershed, Kenya. Funding Source: The Sustainable Management of Watersheds (SUMAWA) Project, Global Livestock Collaborative Research Support Program (GL-CRSP), University of California, Davis. Global Bureau, United States Agency for International Development (USAID). Funding for the social research subgrant I directed was $28,000. Total funds = $28,000
- 2006 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Terry Sharik (USU PI): Gombe School of Environment & Society (GOSESO) in Tanzania, Phase II. Funding Source: New England BioLabs. Total funds = $8,000.
- 2006 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Terry Sharik (USU PI): Gombe School of Environment & Society (GOSESO) in Tanzania, Phase II. Funding Source: International Community Foundation (ICF). Total funds = $49,666.
- 2004-2006 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Patricia Moehlman (Wildlife Trust PI): Doctoral Training for Ms. Almaz Kebebe of Ethiopia. Funding Source: African Wildlife Foundation. Total funds = $24,994.
- 2003-2007 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Patricia Moehlman (Wildlife Trust PI): Doctoral Training for Ms. Almaz Kebebe of Ethiopia. Funding source: Wildlife Trust. Total funds = $56,000
- 2003-2007 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Patricia Moehlman (Wildlife Trust PI): Doctoral Training for Mr. Simon Bisrat of Eritrea. Funding source: Wildlife Trust. Total funds = $63,000.
- 2000-2007 D.L. Coppock (PI): Improving Pastoral Risk Management on East African Rangelands—Outreach and Action Research. Funding source: USAID Mission to Ethiopia, Addis Ababa. Total funds = $1,275,000.
- 1999-2001 D.L. Coppock (PI): Improving Pastoral Risk Management on East African Rangelands—Training for Egerton University, Kenya. Funding source: USAID Mission to Kenya, Nairobi. Total funds = $60,000.
- 1998-2009 D.L. Coppock (Lead PI): Improving Pastoral Risk Management on East African Rangelands. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau; Global Livestock Collaborative Research Support Program. Total funds over four competitive grant renewals (1997-00; 2001-3; 2003-6; 2006-9) = $4,025,000.
- 1996-1997 D.L. Coppock (PI): Improving Pastoral Risk Management on East African

Rangelands-Assessment Team Formation. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau; Small Ruminant Collaborative Research Support Program. Total funds = $154,000

- 1996-1997 D.L. Coppock (PI): Training Grant for Ms. Lita Buttolph. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau; Small Ruminant Collaborative Research Support Program. Total funds = $13,300
- 1996-1998 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Kenneth Olson (USU PI): Constraints to Adoption of Improved Management Systems for Utah Beef Cattle—Reducing Methane Emissions from Beef Herds in Range-Based Management Systems. Funding source: U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Total funds = $36,500.
- 1995-1997 D.L. Coppock (PI): Banking Livestock Capital for Pastoral Risk Management in Ethiopia—Training for Mr. Solomon Desta of Ethiopia. Funding source: The Rockefeller Foundation. Total funds = $18,185
- 1995-1997 D.L. Coppock (PI): Banking Livestock Capital for Pastoral Risk in Ethiopia Vehicle Procurement. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau; Small Ruminant Collaborative Research Support Program. Total funds = $22,000
- 1995-1997 D.L. Coppock (PI): Public Grazing Permittees Under Pressure: Sustainability of Coping Strategies on Private Lands. Funding source: USDA Sustainable Agriculture Research and Extension Program. Total funds = $63,000
- 1995-1996 D.L. Coppock (PI): Synthesis Phase—Sustainable Crop-Livestock Systems for the Bolivian Highlands. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau; Small Ruminant Collaborative Research Support Program. Total funds = $71,400
- 1992-1993 D.L. Coppock (PI): Spanish Language Training Grant for Ms. Lita Buttolph. Funding source: Total funds = $7,200
- 1991-1996 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Brien Norton (USU PI): Range Management Component—Sustainable Crop-Livestock Systems for the Bolivian Highlands. Funding source: USAID Global Bureau; Small Ruminant Collaborative Research Support Program (SR-CRSP). Total funds = $500,000

Unimplemented Externally Funded Grants and Contracts at USU:

2005-2006 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Patricia Moehlman (Wildlife Trust PI): Doctoral Training for Mr. Simon Bisrat of Eritrea—Conservation Planning for the African Wild Ass. Funding source: The St. Louis Zoological Gardens. Total funds = $10,000 (student resigned his assistantship after the funds were procured)

Internally Funded Projects at USU:

Total funds procured as PI:	$1,357,956.00 (99%)
Total funds procured as co-PI:	$20,000.00 (1%)
Total funds procured overall:	$1,377,956.00 (100%)

2015-2020 D.L. Coppock (PI) with D. Bailey and P. Howe (co-PIs): Climate Change Perspectives for Utah: Citizen Attitudes and Food Security. Funding Source: Utah Agricultural Experiment Station. Funding total = $180,766.

2010-2012 D.L. Coppock (co-PI) with Zhao Ma (USU PI): Understanding Utah Farmer's Perceptions of Carbon Sequestration Programs and the Likelihood of Participation. Funding source: Utah Agricultural Experiment Station (UAES). Funding total = $20,000

2010-2015 D.L. Coppock (PI): Risk Management and Utah Ranching. Funding Source: Utah Agricultural Experiment Station (UAES). Funding total = $310,690

2004-2010 D.L. Coppock (PI): Long-Term Implications of Drought for Ranching and Rangeland Management in Utah. Funding Source: Utah Agricultural Experiment Station. Funding total = $246,000

1995-1997 D.L. Coppock (PI): Utah Public Grazing Permittees Under Pressure: Sustainability of Coping Strategies on Private Lands. Funding source: Utah State Mineral Lease. Funding total = $25,000

1994-1996 D.L. Coppock (PI): Utah Private Grazing Lands Research and Development. Funding source: Utah State Mineral Lease. Funding total = $79,700

1992-2004 D.L. Coppock (PI): Constraints to Uptake of Technology and Management Innovations Within Utah Pastoral Production Systems. Funding Source: Utah Agricultural Experiment Station. Funding total = $495,000

1993-1994 D.L. Coppock (PI): Banking Livestock Capital for Pastoral Risk Management in Ethiopia. Funding Source: Faculty Research Grant Program, Utah State University. Funding total = $15,000

1992-1993 D.L. Coppock (PI): Provision of a Simulation Modeling Dimension for Graduate Instruction in Animal Nutrition, Production, and Ecology in the College of Natural Resources. Funding source: Academic Strengthening Grant, Utah State University. Funding total = $5,800

Oral Presentations and Posters for Professional Meetings (164 items total; *denotes invited; "Coppock" denotes that Coppock presented the work; 22 with graduate student co-authors; 34 with mentee co-authors; 26 with post-doctoral co-authors)

Overall, there are 84 regular, oral presentations listed for national and international meetings as well as formal seminars at Utah State University. Coppock was the speaker in 52 (62%) of these presentations. Thirty-five (or 42%) of the 84 were invited presentations, and Coppock gave 26 of these talks.

Overall, there are 18 posters listed for national and international meetings. Coppock presented 7 of these. Two posters were invited.

Overall, there are 30 oral presentations related to formal reporting on funded research projects. Coppock presented 26 of these. Twenty two of these were "invited," but in the context of project activities.

Overall, there are 35 instances of oral presentations and/or organizational oversight in the context of symposia, workshops, etc. Coppock was the presenter in all of these cases. In sum, Coppock was either the first author (or organizational lead in the case of workshops and symposia) for 85 (52%) of the 164 outputs. And he had a major role in the vast majority of the rest.

Coppock was also the presenter for 114 (70%) of the 164 outputs.

TEACHING, ADVISING, AND RESEARCH MENTORING

Formal Courses Taught at Utah State (including credit hours and average enrollment):

2014-16	ENVS 4000, Human Dimensions of Natural Resource Management (3 semester credits, 71 enrolled)
2011-16	ENVS 6840/7840, Graduate Orientation Seminar (1 semester credit; 8 enrolled)
2011	ENVS 4960, Undergraduate Directed Readings—Environment and Society (3 semester credits; 1 enrolled)
2007-16	ENVS 3330, Environment and Society (3 semester credits; 50 enrolled)
2007	ENVS 6900, Graduate Study Abroad—Kenya (3 semester credits; 6 enrolled)
2007-8	ENVS 4950, Undergraduate Study Abroad—Ethiopia (3 semester credits; 4 enrolled)
2006	ENVS 7910, Graduate Directed Readings—African Governance and Leadership (2 semester credits; 1 enrolled)
2005-9	ENVS 6000/7000, Graduate Human Dimensions Research Theory (3 semester credits; 8 enrolled)
2004-8	ENVS 6700/7700, Graduate Human Dimensions Research Approaches (3 semester credits; 6 enrolled)
2004-5	ENVS 6810, Graduate Human Dimensions Research Applications (3 semester credits; 4 enrolled)
2007	ENVS 6800, Graduate Departmental Seminar (1 semester credit; 25 enrolled)
2001-2	RLR 5410, Vegetation Analysis for Livestock and Wildlife (3 semester credits; 10 enrolled)
1998-2002	RLR 6800, Graduate Departmental Seminar (1 semester credit; 25 enrolled)
1993-5	RLR 776, Range Animal Nutrition Techniques (2 quarter credits; 10 enrolled)
1992-4	RLR 775, Range Animal Nutrition (3 quarter credits; 5 enrolled)
1992-2003	NR 360/3600, Quantitative Assessment for Natural Resources (4 quarter credits/3 semester credits; 60 enrolled)

GRADUATE STUDENTS

Graduate Students Supervised at Utah State University (1992-2013):

Birkenfeld, Alan. 1994. Diversity and innovation adoption among Utah public land permittees. M. Sc. Thesis, Department of Rangeland Resources. 143 pp. (Recipient of the 1995 Don Dwyer Award for Excellence in the Department of Rangeland Resources).

Published one paper in a peer-reviewed journal with Birkenfeld. Birkenfeld became a successful organic producer of beef in Texas after completing his degree.

Peterson, Regina. 1997. Coping strategies of Utah grazing permittees under economic and social pressure. M.Sc. Thesis, Department of Rangeland Resources. 131 pp.

Published one paper in a peer-reviewed journal with Peterson.

Buttolph, Lita. 1998. Rangeland dynamics and pastoral development in the high Andes: The camelid herders of Cosapa, Bolivia. Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Rangeland Resources. 294 pp. (Recipient of the 1999 Don Dwyer Award for Excellence in the Department of Rangeland Resources).

Published two papers in peer-reviewed journals with Buttolph, plus another article in a popular magazine on alpaca. She pursued a career as a natural resources consultant in the Pacific Northwest after completing her degree.

Desta, Solomon. 1999. Diversification of livestock assets for risk management in the Borana pastoral system of southern Ethiopia. Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Rangeland Resources. 189 pp.

Published three papers in peer-reviewed journals with Desta based on his dissertation. As a peer mentor during Desta's post-doctoral assignments with USU from 1998-2009, we have published another paper in a peer-reviewed journal, three book chapters and monographs, as well as 24 research briefs and proceedings papers. Desta and Coppock have collaborated extensively for many years.

Jacobs, Michael. 1999. Influence of grazing, fire and rainfall regime on plant species dynamics in an Ethiopian perennial grassland. Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Rangeland Resources. 174 pp. (Recipient of the 1998 Robins Award for Outstanding Graduate Research Assistant at Utah State University)

Mike Jacobs and his partner, another graduate student named Cathy Schloeder, came to USU with their own research support and research projects conceptualized. They therefore produced their own co-authored, peer-reviewed publications following attainment of their degrees. Coppock is not a co-author on any of these, despite having been Mike's dissertation supervisor. If Coppock could do this over again he would have co-authored some work with Mike, but "it is what it is." There is continuing collaboration, however. Coppock provided key input in helping Mike secure an influential post with Texas A&M in Afghanistan, where he and Cathy thrived (amazingly). There has also been collaboration on a symposium for the Society for Range Management concerning "Women as Change Agents in the World's Rangelands," held in 2013 at Oklahoma City. Coppock was the organizer of that symposium. Coppock helped Jacobs secure a very influential position in 2015 as Chief of Party for “PRIME,” a major (mega multi-million dollar) pastoral development project supported USAID in Ethiopia.

Sainsbury, Louise. 2001. Intensification in a risky environment: The case of improving private grazing land for beef production in Utah. M.Sc. Thesis, Department of Rangeland Resources. 344 pp.

Published one paper in a peer-reviewed journal with Sainsbury.

Thomas, Marianne. 2006. Building sustainable recreation-planning decisions on federal lands: The role of “authentic” public participation in southern Utah. M.Sc. Thesis, Department of Environment and Society. 141 pp.

Marianne Thomas had a small, unfunded research project, and the topic was outside of my main area of expertise. Neither Ms. Thomas, nor a lead expert on the topic from her supervisory committee, have been able or willing to produce a draft a manuscript from her work.

Kebede, Almaz. 2009. Sustaining the Allideghi grasslands of Ethiopia: Influences of pastoralism and vegetation change. Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Wildland Resources. 318 pp.

One paper with Kebede has been published with Coppock in a peer-reviewed journal. She now has an influential post as Coordinator for a regional “Greening of the Horn of Africa” program based in Addis Ababa. She is one of only a very few female PhDs in Ethiopia today.

Huckett, Stephen. 2010. A comparative study to identify factors affecting adoption of soil and water conservation practices among smallhold farmers in the Njoro river watershed of Kenya. Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Environment and Society.

One paper with Huckett for a peer-reviewed journal is currently in preparation. There have been three papers published in proceedings volumes based on Huckett’s work. Huckett has successfully found employment in Kenya (research) and Minnesota (watershed management) as a follow-up to his degree.

Fubusa, Yared. 2010. Conservation from the bottom-up: Human, financial, and natural capital as determinants of resilient livelihoods in Kigoma Rural, Tanzania. Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Environment and Society.

Fubusa was the founding director of the GOSESO School for Environment and Society in Western Tanzania. He has pursued his career there since finishing his degree. He has not published papers from his dissertation.

Thorley, Margaret. 2011. Linked human health and ecological impacts of community design: Overview of literature and implications for research. M.S. report (Plan B), Department of Environment and Society.

Meg Thorley undertook a small, unfunded research project (outside of my area of expertise) and the literature review she prepared for her thesis as the output will not constitute sufficient material for a peer-reviewed publication. We did, however, collaborate on a review of rangeland drought modeling and climate-prediction activities for the western US, and we may still develop that into an article together. Meg pursued a Ph.D. at Cambridge University, UK, following her degree at USU.

McAllister, Jessica. 2015. Human dimensions of solid waste management: Observations from rural Peru. M.S. report (Plan B). Department of Environment and Society.

Jessica McAllister completed her graduate degree in Human Geography. She was enrolled in the Peace Corps Master's International Program. Her thesis topic is based on her time in the field as supplemented by a literature review. Jessica is now pursuing a career in environmental education.

Derr, Thomas. 2018. Climate change perceptions and adaptation among small-scale farmers in Uganda: A community based approach. M.Sc. research project (plan A). Department of Environment and Society.

Tom Derr is seeking a graduate degree in Human Geography and is enrolled in the Peace Corps Master's International Program. He is currently in Uganda until late 2017.

Graduate Students Mentored at ILCA (1986-1990)

Holden, Sarah. 1988. Dairy marketing and pastoralism: Implications for development in the southern Ethiopian rangelands. M.Sc. Thesis. Dept. of Agricultural Economics and Management, Reading University, United Kingdom. 111 pp. University advisor: Prof. Martin Upton.

Published two papers in peer-reviewed journals with Holden, as well as a conference proceedings paper. Her university advisor had no involvement in this work. My co-authorship with Holden illustrates my unusually strong role as her research mentor. Sarah went on to a distinguished career with DFID (the government international development agency) in the United Kingdom.

Solomon Kebede. 1988. A study of range vegetation at Sarite ranch in southern Ethiopia, with particular emphasis on the woody shrubs Acacia seyal and Acacia horrida. M.A.Sc. Thesis. Dept. of Wool and Animal Science, University of New South Wales, Kensington, Australia. 255 pp. University advisor: Dr. Gordon King.

No published papers came out of the work by this student. Too bad—it was good work. This research was summarized, however, in Coppock (1994) listed previously.

Yohannes Alemseged. 1989. Introducing tropical legumes into the southern rangelands of Ethiopia. M.A.Sc. Thesis. Dept. of Wool and Animal Science, University of New South Wales, Kensington, Australia. 185 pp. University advisor: Dr. Gordon King.

Published two papers in peer-reviewed journals with Alemseged and his university advisor. This illustrates my unusually strong role as a research mentor.

Tamene Yigezu. 1990. Population dynamics of the problem shrubs Acacia drepanolobium and Acacia brevispica in the southern rangelands of Ethiopia. M.A.Sc. Thesis. Dept. of Wool and Animal Science, University of New South Wales, Kensington, Australia. 288 pp. University advisor: Dr. Gordon King.

No published papers came out of the work by this student. Too bad—it was good work. This research was summarized, however, in Coppock (1994) listed previously.

Mulugeta Assefa. 1990. Borana cattle herds: Productivity, constraints, and possible interventions. M.Sc. Thesis. Dept. of Range Science, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado, U.S.A. 155 pp. University advisor: Dr. David Swift.

Coppock published one paper in a peer-reviewed journal and another in a conference proceeding with Assefa and another former graduate student (Holden). The university advisor had little involvement in this aspect of his research work. This illustrates my unusually strong role as a research mentor.

Menwelet Atsedu. 1990. Ecology of calf pastures and supplementary feeding by Borana pastoralists of southern Ethiopia. M.Sc. Thesis. Dept. of Range Science, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado, U.S.A. 117 pp. University advisor: Dr. James Detling.

Published one paper in a peer-reviewed journal with Atsedu and his university advisor. This illustrates my unusually strong role as a research mentor.

Solomon Dessalegn. 1992. Bush encroachment in the southern Ethiopian rangelands: Prospects for control using fire and chemical or mechanical techniques. M.A.Sc. Thesis. Dept. of Wool and Animal Science, University of New South Wales, Kensington, Australia. University advisor: Dr. Gordon King.

No published papers came out of the work by this student. His work was summarized in Coppock (1994) listed previously.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS

Recent Undergraduate Advising and Mentoring Roles at Utah State University:

- | | |
|---------|---|
| 2011-14 | Faculty advisor, Environmental Studies Degree; in this role I am responsible for advising 35 to 65 undergraduates depending on the year. |
| 2009 | Faculty advisor and mentor for Ms. Leah Hazlett , who completed an undergraduate student internship at the USAID Mission in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, from June to August of 2009 for six semester credits. |
| 2005-7 | Faculty Advisor, Student Organization for Society and Natural Resources (SOSNR), Department of Environment and Society |
