MATTOON MIDDLE SCHOOL

Pictured are students and other participants in a Social and Emotional Development course that was offered this spring through Eastern Illinois University Early Childhood, Elementary and Middle Level Education. They participated in the second annual Mentoring Advisory Partnership and Service project, developed by associate professor Mildred Pearson in partnership with Mattoon Middle School. The students apply social emotional learning standards in a middle level classroom through this project, which provides pre-service teachers with a chance to give back to local schools. The EIU students recently engaged with MM students on topics such as bullying, fitting in, empathizing, bouncing back, appreciating family, healthy habits, and preventing the worst and implementing the best.
