(PI, Johns Hopkins Berman Institute of Bioethics/School of Nursing). (5% non-funded effort). This trans-institutional academic/practice collaboration will address root causes of burnout and disengagement to improve well-being, strengthen the bridge from education to practice, and increase retention. R³ will impact 1500+ faculty, students, NRP educators and novice nurses with skills and organizational strategies that reduce burnout, improve resilience, wellbeing and job sustainability, and that forge healthy, ethical workplaces. $1,200,000

2015-2020 K12HD085845 (Ford, D.) (advisory board member, non-funded effort) Johns Hopkins Clinical Research Scholars in Women's Health (Building Interdisciplinary Research Careers in Women's Health; BIRCWH). The Johns Hopkins BIRCWH program addresses local, national, and global needs to produce established and ethical leaders in interdisciplinary women's health and sex and gender differences in health research. These leaders will develop the evidence that guides the future of clinical care for women and their families, systems of health care to address biological and social determinants of health and disease across the life course, and public health approaches to reduce the burden of disease and save the lives of millions of women. $437,441
