OTTO Vogl – Distinguished Honorary Alumni Award

Dr. Otto Vogl is a UMass Amherst Professor Emeritus and the Herman F. Mark Professor Emeritus of the Polytechnic University in New York. A pioneer in the field of polymer science, he is most noted for his work on the polymerization of higher aldehydes and the importance of the colling temperature of polymerization. Vogl helped advance the research and study of polymers at the UMass Amherst Polymer Science and Engineering Department, bringing national recognition to the program.
