WORK HISTORY

University of Nevada Las Vegas Libraries: Associate Professor & Education Librarian, 2008 to 2011. Professor & Education Librarian, 2011-2012

- Liaison for instruction and collections to the College of Education (CoE).
- Enhanced visibility and utilization of library services and resources by: establishing a blog to provide selected local, state & national education news to faculty; initiating weekly office hours in the CoE, and regularly communicating through e-mail and department meetings with faculty.
- Significantly increased the number of CoE classes from all departments which now include a library instruction component (research and information literacy skills)
- Collaborated with the EDU 280 program (a course meeting the university's diversity requirement) to design and teach research and evaluation skills in 5-6 sections per semester, with accompanying grading of the research assignment.

Oregon State University Libraries: Assistant Professor & Social Science Reference Librarian, 1999-2005; Associate Professor, 2005-2008; Instruction Coordinator, 2001-03; Graduate Faculty, College of Education, 2001-2008.

- Liaison for instruction and collections to the College of Education and the Psychology and Sociology departments.
- As Instruction coordinator:
 - Developed and implemented strategic goals for library instruction activities
 - Provided professional development opportunities for continuing and new library instructors, locally and statewide through workshops, brown bag lunches, and guest speakers.
 - Established the collaboration between the OSU Libraries instruction program and the university writing program (both the basic writing skills program, WR 121, and the Writing Intensive Curriculum program)
 - Co-designed the library curriculum and assignments for basic writing course (WR 121)
 - Oriented new graduate teaching assistants in WR 121 program to library instruction and assignments each fall
 - Coordinated library instruction for WR 121 each quarter (approximately 60 sessions – 2 sessions per section)
 - Initiated and coordinated contact with Kent State University to become the first outside partner participating in the Standardized Assessment of Information Literacy (<http://www.projectsails.org>). All WR 121 students over a 4-year period and a sample of graduating seniors took this assessment as part of an overall assessment plan for library instruction.
