Historic and Cultural Heritage Sites of the Old Believers in Lithuania

HISTORIC AND CULTURAL HERITAGE SITES OF THE OLD BELIEVERS IN LITHUANIA

United States Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad Message from the Chairman

One of the principal missions that United States law assigns the Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad is to identify and report on cemeteries, monuments, and historic buildings in Central and Eastern Europe associated with the cultural heritage of U.S. citizens, especially endangered sites. The Congress and the President were prompted to establish the Commission because of the special problem faced by Jewish sites in the region. The populations that had once cared for the properties were annihilated during the Holocaust. The atheistic Communist Party dictatorships that succeeded the Nazis throughout most of the region were insensitive to American Jewish concerns about the preservation of the sites. Properties were converted to other uses or encroached upon by development. Natural deterioration was not counteracted. Vandalism often went unchecked.

This report identifies and discusses Old Believers cemeteries and church buildings located in the Republic of Lithuania. I hope that the report will encourage preservation efforts and assist American Christians of Lithuanian descent to connect with the last remnants of their heritage in Lithuania.

The Commission is also required by U.S. law to seek assurances from the governments of the region regarding the protection and preservation of these cultural heritage properties. I am pleased to note that the Governments of the United States and Lithuania entered into a Commission-negotiated agreement regarding the protection and preservation of certain cultural properties in 2002. The agreement covers the sites identified in this report.

Origin, Mission, and Development of the Project

On October 15, 2002, the United States and the Republic of Lithuania signed an agreement regarding the protection and preservation of places of worship, historic sites, monuments, and cemeteries.

Toward these ends, the United States Commission for the Preservation of America’s Heritage Abroad commissioned Dr. Grigorijus Potašenko of the Center for Stateless Cultures at Vilnius University to survey Lithuanian church and cemetery sites related to the Christian sect known as Russian Old Believers, or simply as Old Believers. Dr. Potašenko was also asked to prepare this report detailing his findings regarding the current state of preservation for these sites and his recommendations for ensuring their continued protection. Detailed descriptions of most of the churches and some of the cemeteries are provided in this report. Additional documentation can be consulted by contacting Dr. Potašenko and the Center for Stateless Cultures.

The project was overseen by Dr. Samuel D. Gruber, and assistance in bringing the report to publication was provided by Rahel Elmer Reger, Nicole Zehr, and David Ramm. Their efforts were supplemented by Commission Program Manager Katrina A. Krzysztofiak, Jeffrey L. Farrow, and Patricia Hoglund, all under the direction of Commission Chairman Warren L. Miller.
I. INTRODUCTION

In 1990, more than 50 churches in Lithuania belonged to a religious group known as the Russian Old Believers or, simply, Old Believers. The group is a Christian sect that split off from the Russian Orthodox Church in the mid-17th century.

Since 1990, the situation of Old Believers in Lithuania has changed remarkably. Membership in village parishes has diminished, many churches have closed, and others have been neglected and/or burglarized. Many parishes have vanished or are in danger of vanishing. The documentation of the historically and culturally significant heritage of Russian Old Believers in Lithuania has, therefore, become extremely important.

This report describes Old Believer material culture in Lithuania and identifies options for its protection. The project has four interrelated goals:

- Locate historic and cultural Old Believer sites.
- Observe and record present conditions.
- Identify possible protective and restorative measures.
- Outline areas needing further research.

To this end, a field survey of significant Old Believer sites in Lithuania was conducted between April 2000 and November 2001 by Grigory Potašenko on behalf of the United States Commission for the Preservation of America’s Heritage Abroad. This report details the findings of that survey and identifies options for preserving this cultural heritage.

II. DEFINITIONS, METHODOLOGY, AND GENERAL SOURCES

II.1. Definitions

Active Sites: Places where, in the case of churches or parishes, Old Believer religious services were still being held at the time of the survey or, in the case of cemeteries, where new burials of Old Believers were still being made.

Eight-final Cross: The traditional symbol of the Old Believers.

Fig. 1. Drawing of an eight-final cross
Inactive Sites: Places where, in the case of churches or parishes, Old Believer religious services were conducted as recently as the second half of the 20th century but no longer were conducted at the time of the survey or, in the case of cemeteries, where new burials were no longer being made.

Material Culture: The material culture of Old Believers consists of churches and cemeteries. It can be further described as follows:

- Churches: Products of architecture and/or places of worship for a religious group, which have exclusive local or national meaning from a historical, artistic, and religious point of view.
- Cemeteries: Burial sites of Russian Old Believers or mixed cemeteries which have historical and cultural value.

Mixed Burial Sites: Cemeteries — typically municipal burial grounds — where Old Believers are interred in sufficient numbers to be either in the majority or, at least, constitute a significant minority.
Parish: The parish is the primary administrative unit of the Old Believer community, which is associated with a particular place. The term is usually used in this respect throughout this report. There is usually one church in a parish (the parish church), but there can be more. The term is also sometimes used in a more general sense, to denote the religious community of individuals.

II.2. Methodology

The survey identified churches, cemeteries, and mixed burial places of Russian Old Believers. Churches were identified using the List of Registered Old Believers Parishes (1948) from the Central Archives of Lithuania and the List of Old Believers Parishes in Lithuania compiled by the Archive of the Supreme Council of the Old Believers in Vilnius (1992).

II.3. General Sources

Several sources were used to identify cemeteries committed exclusively to Russian Old Believers and mixed cemeteries. First, priests and parishioners provided information about cemetery locations. That data was then checked against other sources and used to find more specific information in local municipalities.

For a complete list of sources, see Section IX.

III. INTRODUCTION TO THE HISTORY OF OLD BELIEVERS IN LITHUANIA

III.1. Beginnings in the 17th Century

The Old Believers (Russian: Staroveri) are a dissenting sect of the Russian Orthodox Church. The sect first formed in the middle of the 17th century in response to reforms introduced by Patriarch Nikon (1605-1681), then leader of the Church supported by Tsar Alexi.

The reforms were largely intended to bring Russian Orthodox liturgical practices in line with those of the Greek Orthodox Church. Perhaps the most significant involved the sign of benediction made by priests. Patriarch Nikon proposing that three fingers be used to represent the Trinity, while Russian Orthodox tradition preferred only two to represent the dual nature of Christ.
A great part of the Russian society did not accept these reforms, which led to the schism (raskol) that created the Old Believers.

During councils of Russian bishops in 1666-1667, opponents of the reforms were denounced as renegades (raskolnik) and persecuted mercilessly. At least 500 monks were murdered by Tsarist soldiers for their refusal to reform.

In 1685, Regent Sofia ordered that opponents of the reforms of Peter I must suffer the death penalty. This finally led to the formation of the separate community known as Old Believers.

The struggle to find priests to lead illegal rites led to a split within the Old Believers. One group, the Popovtsy (‘priestly’), used ordained, but secretly dissenting, priests. Another group, the Bespopovtsy (‘priestless’), used lay-priests to lead their services.

Eventually, both factions formed a number of smaller communities. The most important of these among the Bespopovtsy were the Pomortsy, Fedoseevtsy, and Filipovtsy.

III.2. Emigration to the Commonwealth of Two Nations

Facing persecution in their own country, many Russian Old Believers took advantage of the religious tolerance and relatively good conditions offered by landowners in the Kingdom of Poland and the Grand Duchy of Lithuania (GDL). They emigrated to these countries at the end of the 17th century, when Poland and Lithuania were still referred to as the Commonwealth of the Two Nations.

Members of the Bespopovtsy settled mainly in Polish Livonia, Kurland, and the GDL. Most of these people belonged to the subgroup known as Fedoseevtsy. The subgroup had been founded in Russia’s Novgorod-Pskov area around the teachings of Feodosij Vasilyev but reached complete fruition in the Commonwealth.

Information from the chronicles of Degučiai makes it clear that Trofim Ivanov, a former rifleman (desiatnik), was one of the earliest Old Believer immigrants to settle in northeastern Lithuania. He settled there in 1679.

Thirty-one years later, according to Old Believer sources, the first Lithuanian prayer houses were founded in Pushchia, near Kriaunai (now the Rokiškiai district). Documents from 1679-1710, however, suggest that Old Believer settlements in the present territory of Lithuania were scarce.
III.3. Growth and Change in the 18th Century

Massive immigration from Russia solidified the Fedoseevtsy community in the GDL. The majority of immigrants came from the southern parts of the Russian province of Pskov. Others emigrated from the Tver and Novgorod provinces. Some immigrants came from the Smolensk, Galich, Suzdal, and Vorotynsk districts and from the cities of Moscow, Usttiug, and Serpuchov.

In the second half of the 18th century, immigration into the northwestern and western parts of the GDL intensified. This was due to sustained religious persecution in Russia and contrasting religious freedom and economic opportunity in the GDL.

Indeed, unlike in Russia, Old Believer practice in Poland and Lithuania was legalized quite early—allegedly in the late 17th century. By 1760, there were at least eight Old Believer parishes in the present territory of Lithuania.

At the same time, the eschatological views of Old Believers were no longer of decisive importance. Instead, their social status became more significant.

In 1791, with a population of 100,000 to 180,000, Old Believers made up approximately 1%-2% of the Commonwealth of the Two Nations 8.79 million citizens.

When Russian forces occupied the eastern parts of the Commonwealth of the Two Nations in 1792, many Old Believers moved further west. Between 1760 and 1795, nine more prayer houses were founded in the present territory of Lithuania. By the end of the 18th century, there were at least sixteen Old Believer parishes in all.

Archival data, Old Believer literature, and the inventories of Lithuanian estates suggest that the most important dwelling centers of Old Believers in parts of northeastern, central, and southern Lithuania that currently exist (or existed until recently) were formed during the last two decades of the 18th century.

III.4. Developing an Ecclesiastical Structure

From 1679 to 1823, the Fedoseevtsy church organization was developed alongside the formation of the priestless Old Belief community in the GDL. One of the peculiarities of priestless Old Believers church life was the continuous participation of both laypeople and spiritual superiors (nastavniki) in the religious activities of the parish and the church organization, which was centered on autonomous parishes. As early as the end of the 17th century, the Fedoseevtsy movement saw the establishment of the “spiritual superior institute.” Another form of church administration during the early period of the Lithuanian Old Believer community was through councils.
The Gudiškiai monastery, in what is now the Ignalina district, functioned between 1728-1755. It was a well-known religious center of the Fedoseevtsy in the Commonwealth and had remarkable influence on the development of the Fedoseevtsy Community in Russia.

In 1752, what was called the Polish Council in Gudiškiai adopted Fedoseevtsy regulations that strengthened Feodosij Vasilyev's teaching and were more severe than those of the Bespopovtsy "newlyweds" (novozheny) movement.

In 1823, record books of marriage certificates were introduced at Degučiai parish. This innovation meant that the Fedoseevtsy center, famous in the GDL in the early 19th century, acknowledged the teachings concerning marriages made by a lay-priest. A "matrimony institute" was also introduced.

These changes saw the end of the Fedoseevtsy period in the history of Old Believers community of GDL and the beginning of the Fedoseevtsy-Pomortsy period. Towards the end of the 19th century, Old Believers in Lithuania almost completely unified their religious views with the principles of the Pomortsy Community. They accepted all resolutions of a congress in Vilnius in 1906.

The city of Vilnius figures prominently in the history of Old Believers in Lithuania. Though Old Believers did not begin to settle there until 1825, the Old Believer parish in Vilnius became the regional center of the Pomortsy community.

In 1901, the first provincial congress of Old Believer spiritual leaders was held in Vilnius. Between January 25 and 27, 1906, the first international congress of spiritual leaders took place in the city. This congress brought representatives of parishes from throughout present Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Poland, and parts of Belorus and Russia.

III.5. Struggles and Stability in the 19th Century

Over the course of the 19th century, the situation of Old Believers in Russia underwent some changes, varying from relative religious tolerance under Tsar Alexander I to persecution under Peter the Great and Nicholas I. Between 1825 and 1855, 13 of the 33 known churches of Old Believers in Lithuania were closed (eight of them destroyed).

During the second half of the 19th century, the situation of Old Believers gradually improved. The public became more tolerant, and the government gradually expanded their civil rights.

After the revolt of 1863-1864 in Lithuania, the Russian administration carried out a dual policy concerning Old Believers. On the one hand, civil authorities encouraged the Old Believers to convert and rejoin the Orthodox Church (a plan that failed). At the same time, Tsarist authorities sided with the Old Believers as part of the authorities’ open policy of Russification in Lithuania.

During the last decade of the 19th century, the governor of Kaunas County created a special program of economic and cultural development for the Russian settlements, which was to promote the creation and expansion of Russian property in Lithuania and, therefore, in part aid Old Believers.

III.6. The First Half of the 20th Century

The 20th century saw continued tolerance of Old Believers, both in Lithuania and in Russia. On April 17 and October 17, 1905, an imperial decree was issued in the form of two manifestoes, one on religious tolerance and the other on freedom of conscience. The former law permitted for the first time the existence of Old Believer parishes in Russia, while the latter determined the order of their formation and the rights of their members and leaders.

From that year until 1915, the Russian state recognized Old Believer parishes, as did the independent Lithuania between 1918 and 1940. On May 20, 1923, the government of Lithuania issued “temporary rules regulating relations between the Old Believers Organization of Lithuania and the Government of Lithuania.” According to these rules, the government recognized the autonomy of the Old Believer Church in Lithuania and even allocated it some financial support. For this reason the historian Ivan Prozorov (1900 – 1956) has named the first decades of the 20th century the period of emancipation in the history of Old Believers and called the 1920s and 1930s in particular a “period of complete freedom of religious belief and equality” in Lithuania and also in Latvia, Estonia, and Poland. (At this time in Soviet Russia there was, as he puts it, “a struggle with atheism.”)

In Kaunas, on May 6, 1922, the first congress of the Old Believer Pomortsy Church in Lithuania was held. It selected an administrative body called the Central Council of Old Believers (CCOB). Vasilii Prozorov was elected first chairman of the CCOB, followed by Aristarch Jefremov. Ivan Prozorov held the position between 1938 and 1941. In addition to being the author of The History of Old Belief (1933) Ivan Prozorov was also an organizer of religious, educational and cultural life. At the CCOB in 1923, the Spiritual Commission was established with five instructors charged with solving a set of initial questions. During the 1920s and 1930s a total of eight congresses of Old Believers were held in Lithuania. In 1923, more than 32,000 Old Believers lived in the country, organized within 53 parishes, which served 51 spiritual superiors.

The CCOB organized the publishing of spiritual and devotional literature, as well as textbooks and magazines. In 1931, under the initiative of the CCOB, a series of two-year training courses for the spiritual superiors and teachers of religion were set up in Kaunas and led by the historian Ivan Prozorov.
III.7. The Decline of the Church under Soviet Occupation

Given the Soviet Union’s well-known desire to maintain rigid control over every aspect of religious belief, the time after World War II was especially difficult and even tragic for the Old Believers, just as it was for the Catholic Church and Lithuanian society in general. After 1945, the Soviet government forced the Sovietization of Lithuania. Any attempt to revive the Old Believers Church was immediately suppressed.

The Soviet authority began to interfere regularly and roughly with the church’s internal business. Between 1945 and 1947, the representative of the Council on Religious Cults did not even permit the sessions of the High Council of the Old Believers in Vilnius to convene.

In 1946, aspiring to strengthen their control over churches, the authorities began to register all religious organizations in Lithuania. Some sources have mentioned mass deportation of the inhabitants of Lithuania. Some Old Believers were arrested, and some spiritual leaders were banished.

The church’s management was tested under strong pressure of the authorities and the secret police (the KGB). Like other religious and ethnic groups, the Old Believer Church had to search for other forms of acceptable expression within the context of the Communist state. For example, Old Believers were involved in a so-called Movement for Peace that quite often served the propaganda purposes of the Soviet government.

The post-World War II period saw a continual decline in the number of Old Believers. In 1953, only 58 of the 74 Old Believer parishes existing in 1944 remained.

Although nine of the 16 parishes ostensibly “liquidated themselves,” it was the process of collectivization and the ongoing struggle with Soviet authorities that played the most important roles in emptying out these villages -- abetted by widespread industrialization and urbanization.

The number of parishes continued to decrease slightly between the 1950s and 1980s, while the number of parishioners and spiritual superiors (especially in village parishes) fell considerably. Thus, in 1948 there were 56 parishes, more than 50 spiritual superiors, and 88,700 parishioners. In 1969, there were still 56 parishes, but by 1990, that number had fallen to 51, serving some 70,000-100,000 parishioners. The number of spiritual superiors had fallen to only 11.

As the number of rural parishes declined, however, Old Believer parishes in cities such as Vilnius, Kaunas, Klaipėda, and Utena grew.
III.8. Ecclesiastical Continuity under the Soviets

From 1944 to 1990, the Old Believer Church in Lithuania operated the High Council of the Old Believers (HCOB). During this time, the HCOB in Vilnius was the sole surviving center of the Old Believer Pomortsy Church in the Soviet Union. Under adverse conditions, it sponsored and registered new Old Believer parishes and carried out congressional sessions to help resolve church issues.

Between 1948 and 1965, the chairman of the HCOB, Fedor Kuznecov (1869-1965), was the spiritual superior of the Vilnius parish. He was also chairman of a church-wide spiritual commission. After Kuznecov, the post was occupied by Josif Nikitin (1905-1997), the spiritual superior of the Kaunas parish. From 1969 until 1998, the chairman of the HCOB was Ivan Jegorov (1905-1998). He was twice re-elected to the post.

In October 1966, the congress of the Old Believer Pomortsy Church in Vilnius celebrated the 300th anniversary of the Old Belief. They were joined by representatives of Pomortsy parishes from Latvia, Estonia, Byelorussia, Ukraine, and Russia. Afterwards, many of the parishes began to recognize the spiritual trusteeship of the HCOB in Vilnius.

III.9. The Situation of Lithuanian Old Believers Since 1990

Following the Russian Orthodox Church’s acceptance of Old Believer rituals in the early 1970s and the dissolution of the Soviet Union, interest in the Old Believer faith grew slightly. In 1990, under the initiative of the HCOB, the magazine Kitezh-Grad (Kitezh-City) was issued, and over the next two years, Old Believer churches were built in Utena and Zarasai.

The Pomortsy Old Believers Church has become one of the nine officially recognized traditional religious organizations of Lithuania. As with other such groups, the Old Believers receive some financial support from the state on an annual basis.

At the present time, services are attended by a considerably larger group of parishioners than in the recent past. This is especially true during the main religious holidays. A census in 2001 found more than 27,000 Old Believers in Lithuania. This number made the sect the third largest religious denomination by population in the country. (The Roman Catholic and the Russian Orthodox Churches were larger.) The Supreme Council of the Old Believers counts even more adherents: in excess of 45,000.

Overall, urban communities of Old Believers have stabilized or even expanded to some degree. As this report shows, however, small town and rural parishes have at the same time often diminished or, even, entirely disappeared.
IV. DISCUSSION OF SITES SURVEYED AND DOCUMENTATION KEY

IV.1. Overview of Sites Surveyed

In 2000 and 2001, the survey examined 181 Old Believer sites distributed among nine of Lithuania’s ten counties (apskritys). (The only county not visited was Marijampole.) A total of 76 active and inactive Old Believer parishes and churches were surveyed, as were 96 Old Believer cemeteries and nine mixed cemeteries (see Tables 1, 2, and 3).

IV.2. Documentation Key

This report lists the results of the survey by county. In alphabetical order, the ten counties in Lithuania are as follows:

1. Alytus
2. Kaunas
3. Klaipėda
4. Marijampole
5. Panevėžys
6. Šiauliai
7. Tauragės
8. Telšiai
9. Utena
10. Vilnius

For each county, a general introduction is given with: information about its historical importance to Lithuanian Old Believers; its current population; and which sites, if any, are in danger or could be placed on a list of sites of local or regional significance.

This is followed by an overview of the county's churches. The churches and/or parishes are often broken down further into lists of active and inactive places of Old Believer worship, and some overall note is often made regarding each of these lists.

Third, there is a detailed description of the most significant church sites in that county. Information on both active and inactive sites is presented. Each site description provides information about the history and present circumstances of the church as follows.

Church Sites
1. Present (alternate/former) name of town or village in which church is located or town/village nearest
2. Present name of church
3. Cultural value and main data, including (when available) information such as:
   a. Date of earliest known Old Believer church
   b. Date parish was established and church built
   c. Number of members in parish today (and before 1940)
   d. Information on whether Old Believers from other towns or villages use this church and, if so, which towns
   e. Appearance
   f. Current use
   g. Care and restoration status
   h. Whether the church is listed and/or protected as a local, county, or national monument
4. Address
5. Location
6. Present size of the church’s property in hectares
7. Condition
8. Date of survey

Note: The subsections listed under Survey Area 3 (Cultural Value) are not covered in every survey, since information was not readily available in all cases.

Following the survey of parishes and churches in each county is an overview of the county’s Old Believer burial sites. It also provides information on what are termed “mixed burial sites.” These are municipal cemeteries that contain the remains of people of several different faiths, though typically Old Believers are either in the majority or constitute a significant minority of the graves.

Only a selection of the cemeteries visited for this survey is described in this report and a detailed description of selected cemeteries follows. Information on all of the cemeteries remains on file and can be obtained through the Commission or from Dr. Potašenko at the Center for Stateless Cultures at Vilnius University.

The descriptions in this report follow the format below.

Cemeteries: Present Circumstances and History

1. Present (alternate/former) name of town or village in which cemetery is located or the one nearest
2. Present (alternate) name
3. Cultural value and main data
   a. Date cemetery was established
   b. Present Old Believers population in town or village nearest to cemetery
   c. Whether Old Believers from others towns or villages used this cemetery
   d. Current use
   e. Appearance (markers; security; location; approximate number of grave-stones; organization of the cemetery into sections; and date of the oldest known gravestone)
   f. Care and restoration
   g. Whether the cemetery is listed and/or protected as a local, regional, or national site
4. Address
5. Location
6. Present size in hectares
7. Condition
8. Date of survey
The final section in each county overview details the maintenance measures either already undertaken or that could be undertaken in the county’s Old Believer burial sites.

V. Survey Results by County

V.1. Alytus County

Surveys were made of two Old Believer sites in Alytus County (2001 pop., approximately 1,881,000). Both sites are in the southern part of the county in Lazdijai and its vicinity (i.e., at the Polish and Lithuanian border).

In the 19th century the area was a part of the province of Suvalkai. Small groups of Old Believers settled there in the second half of the 18th century.

Until 1968, there was an Old Believer church in Nekrūnai village (Lazdijai District). In 1992, a church opened in Lazdijai.

There are two cemeteries of Old Believers in Alytus County. Both are in the countryside.

V.1.(a) Old Believer Churches in Alytus County

Up to the end of 1960s, the only Old Believer church in Alytus County was in the village of Nekrūnai (Lazdijai District), which was built in 1927. In 1949, the parish had some 1,200 parishioners.

The church was used until 1968, but the building and its ruins existed until the late 1980s. It was probably then disassembled.

Between 1960 and the 1980s, the number of parishioners sharply decreased, the church was robbed four times (icons and books were among the items taken). Finally, it was left empty.

Active Old Believer Parishes in Alytus County
1. Lazdijai, Lazdijai District

Inactive Old Believer Parishes in Alytus County
1. Nekrūnai, Lazdijai District
V.1.(b) Old Believer Church Sites Surveyed

Lazdijai

1. Site: Old Believer church in Lazdijai
2. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: Main location of a group of Old Believers in Lazdijai and neighboring areas.
   Lazdijai parish was founded in 1991-1992. It is a new and small parish. In 2001, the parish included about 50-60 parishioners.
   The timbered body of the church stands on a concrete base. The wood walls are inlaid with bricks. The gabled roof has a cross on top on the west side (approximate height 7 m). The building’s ground plan is rectangular (7 x 12 m).
3. Address: Siauroji Street 10, Lazdijai, Lazdijai District, Alytus County
4. Location: The church is in the western part of Lazdijai and located between private homes.
5. Present size of property: Approximately 0.07 ha.
6. Condition of church: The church was built in 1992 and is in good condition. It is the property of the Old Believer parish in Lazdijai.
7. Date of survey: September 8, 2001

Nekrūnai

Fig. 4. Nekrūnai, Old gravestone in Cemetery.

Fig. 5. Nekrūnai, Gravestone of a teacher killed by Lithuanian partisans in 1947.

1. Site: Old Believer cemetery in Nekrūnai village
2. Cultural value and main data: Historical value: Inhabitants of the former Nekrūnai village and neighboring villages and farms (parishioners of former Nekrūnai and present Lazdijai parish) are buried here.

The cemetery, founded in the 1920s, is still in use. Buried in the cemetery are members of the Solovjovy, Golubovskije, Jegorovy, and Sidunovy families, among others. The cemetery also contains gravestones of victims of the partisan war in Lithuania in 1944-1953. Teacher Karp K. Sidunov, for example, was killed by the “hand of bandits” (Lithuania’s partisans) on November 29, 1947.

There are 167 gravestones and 185 graves in the cemetery. The majority of burials date from after 1945.
3. Address: Bajoriškės (formerly Nekrūnai) village, Lazdijai District, Alytus County
4. Location: 2 km east of Lazdijai, 700 m east of Bajoriškės village, 80 m north of the road of Lazdijai–Veisejai, on the hillside, among birch and maple groves.
5. Present size: 0.04 ha.
6. Appearance and condition: The cemetery is isolated and does not have a sign indicating that it is an Old Believer cemetery. It is, however, marked by Old Believers symbols on the gate (eight-final cross). The cemetery has an iron fence. It is marked with inscriptions in Russian. The cemetery contains gravestones of various types, among which are some with fine and smoothly inscribed markings, flat stones with eight-final crosses carved in relief, vertically-set stones with a concrete eight-final cross, and flat monuments with concrete eight-final cross on top.

V.2. Kaunas County

In 2001, there were about 7,032 Old Believers in six parishes in Kaunas County. Twenty-one of 25 identified Old Believer sites were surveyed.

Kaunas County is important in the history of Old Believers in Lithuania. In the 18th century this was one of the first Old Believer settlements. It was also the location of the important religious and cultural centers in Rimkai (founded in the 18th century and today located in the Jonava District) and in Kaunas. The Kaunas center was founded in the beginning of the 19th century and its present church was built in 1906. In the 1920s and ’30s, Kaunas was the religious and administrative center of the Old Believers of Lithuania.

There is one Old Believer site in Kaunas County that has been included in this report’s list of endangered Old Believer Sites in Lithuania (Appendix VI): the former Old Believer church in Pereloza. It is listed because of problems brought about by vandalism, including theft and destruction.

There also is one Old Believer site in Kaunas County that could be ranked as a monument of local significance: the church in Dudiškis. Two could be considered of regional significance: the churches in Pereloza and Kaunas.

V.2.(a) Old Believer Churches in Kaunas County

In the middle of the 20th century, there were nine Old Believer parishes in Kaunas County. They represented more than one-eighth of all Old Believer parishes in Lithuania.

In Kaunas County, two of the six functioning Old Believer churches are in good condition (Kaunas and Baltramis), and three are in satisfactory condition (Rimkai, Ibenai, and Muro-Stravininkai). Each of these churches is used at present. The church in Užušaliai is located in a small part of a room of a former kindergarten.

3. Ibénai, Kėpainiai District
4. Kaunas, Kaunas District
5. Muro-Strėvininkai, Strėvininkai village, Kaišiadorys District
6. Užušaliai, Jonava District

Four Old Believer parishes in the county and their churches are no longer active. There are several different reasons for this. Local authorities destroyed the church in Išorai during the second half of the 1940s; the church in Paskutiškis was burnt down in the late 1960s or early 1970s; and the parishes of Perelazai and Dudiškis emptied out after their members left the area. Migration from the area was caused by such events as a partisans’ war between 1945 and 1953; the collectivization at the end of the 1940s and ‘50s; and land improvements of the 1970s and ‘80s. At present, the churches in Perelozai and Dudiškis still exist but they are not used and are in danger of deterioration. The Perelozai church is in danger of destruction.

1. Perelozai
   a. Site: Old Believers church in Perelozai
   b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The main location of a group of Old Believers.

   The Perelozai parish was founded at the end of the 18th century. It is one of the first Old Believer parishes in Lithuania. At the end of the 1940s, this parish included about 850 parishioners.

   The church has not been used since the 1980s. Old Believers in Perelozai use the church in the village of Jonava, some 22 km from Perelozai.

   The church was built in the 1920s. Its timbered body is built on a concrete base. The walls are made of wooden planks. In a central part of the church, two towers (approximate height 25 m) are raised from its gabled roof. The building’s ground plan is rectangular (11 x 20 m).
The Old Believer church in Perelozai has special architectural value (and thus is a monument of regional value) because of its use of Old Russian architectural details, such as its church towers and bulb-shaped top, the so-called lukovidnaja glava, with an eight-final cross.

f. Condition of church: The Perelozai church is in danger of destruction. It has not been used regularly since the 1950s and public prayer has not been held there since the 1980s. The empty building lacks windows and doors. The church also does not have a fence. The land around the church is overgrown with trees and brush.

2. Dudiškis
   a. Site: Old Believers church in Dudiškis
   b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The main location of a group of Old Believers in Dudiškis and its neighboring areas.
The Dudiškis parish was founded in 1763. It was one of the first Old Believers parishes in Lithuania. By the end of the 1940s, the parish included about 500 people. The church has not been used since the 1980s or, perhaps, since as early as the 1960s. Local parishioners use the church in Muro-Strėvininkai, some 15 km from Dudiškis.

The church was built at the beginning of the 1940s. It is brick on a concrete base. Raised above a gabled roof in the western part of the church is a tower (approximate height 15 m). The building’s ground plan is rectangular (11 x 9 m).

The church in Dudiškis has particular architectural value (and could be considered a monument of regional value) because of its use of Old Russian architectural details, such as its church towers and bulb-shaped top, the so-called lukovidnaja glava, with an eight-final cross.

d. Situation: Dudiškis village, 0.06 km north from road Kalviai-Šališkės, 6 km in the northeast from Kalviai.
e. Present size of property: About 0.004 ha.
f. Condition of church: The church is in danger of deterioration. Public prayer has not been held since the 1980s or, perhaps, as early as the 1960s. The church is empty and has been burglarized. Many icons and some ceremonial objects were stolen. The church does not have a fence. The building and the lot it is on are the property of the state.

3. Kaunas
   a. Site: Old Believers church in Kaunas
   b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The primary site of a group of Old Believers in Kaunas and its neighboring areas.
      The church serves one of the largest Old Believers parishes in Lithuania. In 2001, there were roughly 5,000 parishioners.
      The parish was founded in the beginning of 19th century and the present church building was built in 1906. It is brick built on a concrete base. In a forward part of the church is a bell tower with a bulb-shaped top and an eight-final cross (approximate height 17 m). In the eastern part there is a small tower. The building’s ground plan is rectangular (12 x 20 m).
      The Old Believer church in Kaunas has particular architectural value (and could be a monument of regional value) because of its use of Old Russian architectural details including its church towers and its bulb-shaped top, the so-called lukovidnaja glava, with an eight-final cross.
   c. Address: Širvintų Street 19, Kaunas, Kaunas District, Kaunas County
   d. Situation: Church is in a central part of Kaunas.
Present size of property: About 0.2 ha. Condition of church: The church was built in 1906. It is in good condition. It is the property of the Old Believer parish in Kaunas.

V.2.(c) Old Believer Cemeteries in Kaunas County

In addition to the four mixed cemeteries, Kaunas County contains eleven cemeteries devoted exclusively to Old Believers. Out of this total of fifteen, eleven were surveyed.

Among the Old Believer cemeteries in Kaunas is one of the oldest and largest (by number of burials) Old Believer cemeteries in Lithuania: Varpiai (Varpa), Jonava District. It was apparently founded in the 18th century. Three of the Old Believer cemeteries in Kaunas are in cities or suburbs and eight are in the countryside.

Like most of the Old Beleiver cemeteries in Lithuania, the majority of the Old Believer cemeteries in Kaunas County are not large, especially by comparison to modern Catholic cemeteries. Most consist of from 20-500 gravestones and only a few have more than 500 stones. The cemeteries in Kaunas range in size from 0.125-2.4 hectares.

Most of these cemeteries (more than 80%) do not have signs indicating that they are Russian Old Believer cemetery. The signs are written only in Lithuanian and were put up by Soviet authorities. Many Old Believer cemeteries, however, have an eight-final cross on the main gate. Another distinctive feature of Russian Old Believer cemeteries is the presence of gravestones with eight-final crosses.

The most common problems found in these cemeteries are: broken and/or damaged gravestones, especially old ones that are no longer cared for; nonexistent or broken and/or damaged fences, and; debris (branches of trees, grass, etc.) in or near the cemetery or directly behind the fence. There are nine such cemeteries in Kaunas County.

a. Site: Russian Old Believer cemetery in Kunigiškiai

b. Cultural value and main data: Historical value: Parishioners of Baltramaiškis, Jonava, and Vilnius are buried here.

c. The cemetery is actively used. It was apparently founded in the 18th century. Gravestones in the cemetery date from the 19th century. There are approximately 417 gravestones and more than 800 graves. The majority of burials are from after 1945. The cemetery contains gravestones of prominent individuals, such as the chairman of the Vilnius Old Believers parish in the first part of the 20th century, Aristarkh Pimonov, and his parents (Fig. 14).

d. Address: Kunigiškiai village, Jonava District, Kaunas County

e. Situation: Southern part of Kunigiškiai, 2.0 km south from Perelozai village, on a hillside in a pine grove.

V.3. Klaipėda County

In Klaipėda County (2001 pop., about 387,000), two Old Believer churches and five mixed burial sites were surveyed, and findings are given for four.

V.3.(a) Old Believer Churches In Klaipėda County

The first Old Believer parish in this county appeared rather late (sometime after 1945). By the middle of the 20th century, however, there was already another parish. These two parishes are still in existence.

Both Old Believer churches in Klaipėda County are active and in good condition. The church in Šilutė is in a room in a former sports hall.

2. Šilutė, Šilutė District

V.3.(b) Old Believer Church Sites Surveyed

1. Klaipėda
   a. Site: Old Believer church of Klaipėda
   b. Cultural value and main data: Historical and religious value: A main building of the group of Old Believers in Klaipėda.

The parish in Klaipėda was founded in 1945-1946. In 2000, Klaipėda parish included about 5,000 parishioners.

The church is brick and was renovated once in 1959-1960 and again in 1989-1990. The structure started as a one-story apartment building. G. Legenzov gave it exterior details suggestive of a Christian church, including a three-stage wooden tower (height 7 m). A cross on the western part of the roof and a small calotte with a cross on the eastern part surmounts the church. Some characteristic details of Old Russian architecture are present: the pent roof calotte of the tower and the eight-final cross. The building’s ground plan is rectangular (13 x 8 m). The roof is plated with gray slate. Inside there are two parts: an entrance room and the church interior with icons on the eastern wall. The church exists in harmony with the urban complex of a residential area of Klaipėda. Though it was renovated relatively recently, the church could be considered a monument of Old Russian architectural style (representative of the churches of Old Believers of Lithuania, Latvia, and Western Byelorussia in the 19th and 20th centuries).

c. Address: Statybininkų Avenue 84, Klaipėda, Klaipėda District, Klaipėda County
d. Situation: The church is in a cozy area in the southern part of Klaipėda. The building is positioned in a foremost part of a rectangular lot.
e. Present size of property: About 0.06 ha.
f. Condition of church: The building has been maintained and is in good condition. It is the property of the parish of Old Believers in Klaipėda. The land is leased on a long-term basis from the local government.
g. Date of survey: August 12, 2000
2. Šilutė

   a. Site: Old Believers church in Šilutė

   b. Cultural value and main data: Religious value: The primary place of worship for Old Believers in Šilutė. Šilutė was deserted during the Second World War. The Old Believers parish was founded only after the war was over in 1945, when dozens of families of Russian Old Believers from different parts of Lithuania arrived. They mainly came from Russian villages of the Suwałkai region. The area had been part of Poland until German authorities repatriated it to Lithuania in March 1941. In 2000, Šilutė had some 400-500 parishioners.

   The church is a small building flanked on its northern and eastern sides by an apartment house. It was given to the Old Believers parish, repaired and consecrated in the 1990s.

   The building’s ground plan is rectangular (12 x 8 m). There is a porch on the southern side (3 x 5 m). The foundation is concrete. The western wall (height 5 m) is made of bricks that have been plastered and painted white. The roof is covered with grey slate.

   The main entrance to the church is through a wooden door on the western side of the porch. There are two concrete steps leading to the entrance. There is a board with an inscription in Lithuanian: “Old Believers Church of the Lithuanian Republic in Šilutė” above the door. Another entrance is through the porch on the southern side of the building.

c. Address: Lietuvninkų Street 24, Šilutė, Šilutė District, Klaipėda County
d. Situation: The church is on a main street in the center of Šilutė (Figs. 17, 18), set in a spacious internal courtyard of a three-story house.
e. Present size of property: Approximately 0.02-0.03 ha.
f. Condition of church: The exterior of the building was painted in the mid-1990s and is in a normal state of maintenance. It is the property of the Old Believers parish in Šilutė. Old Believers in Šilutė need a separate and more accessible building for public prayer.
g. Date of survey: August 14, 2000

V.3.(c) Old Believers Cemeteries In Klaipėda County

There are five mixed cemeteries in this county, in which are buried the remains of people of various nationalities (Lithuanian, German, and Russian) and various beliefs (Lutheran, Catholic, Russian Orthodox, and Russian Old Believer). Four of these cemeteries are in cities or suburbs, and one (Lebertai) is in the countryside.

1. Joniškis
   a. Site: Klaipėda urban cemetery in Joniškis
   b. Cultural value and main data: Historical and memorial value: The residents of Klaipėda and other cities of Lithuania are buried here. The cemetery is actively used. It was founded at the end of the 1950s. A main avenue divides the cemetery in two. The cemetery is further divided into 116 sections. The dead of different religions are buried in separate areas. The primary division of the cemetery is between Lithuanian (Catholic) and Russian (Old Believers and Orthodox) areas. In the Russian part of the cemetery, the Old Believers and Orthodox are frequently buried in different sections.
At present, there are a few thousand Old Believers buried here (parishioners of Klaipėda parish).

The cemetery is one of the most important Old Believer burial grounds in the country.

It contains graves of such famous people as Šilutė spiritual leader P. Jemeljov and the Klaipėda spiritual leader, Agej Moskalev (1887-1972).

2. Old cemetery in Šilutė
   a. Site: Old urban cemetery in Šilutė
   b. Cultural value and main data: Historical value: Inhabitants of Šilutė and other cities of Lithuania are buried here. The cemetery was apparently founded in the 19th century, but the majority of graves date after the 1950s.
      Lutherans and the Old Believers are buried in separate sections of the cemetery. The Old Believers are buried in a southern part of the cemetery, near a road.
      The cemetery is no longer actively used. There are more than 50 Old Believer graves in the cemetery, most dating from the period between 1944 and 1968.
      Some Old Believers repatriated from the Suvalkai region in Poland are buried here. Among them are Jelena Jemeljanova (1898-1955) (gravestone of E. Jemeljanova); Porphyrij (1922-1960); and Anton Ivanov (1920-1944)

V.4. Panevėžys County

Panevėžys County (2001 pop. about 301,000) is very important in the history and modern situation of the Old Believers in Lithuania. As recently as the second half of the 20th century, there were 11 Old Believer parishes in the county, or nearly one-sixth of all of the parishes in the country. By 2001, the number had dwindled to five. At present, there are 23 Old Believer cemeteries in Panevėžys County, or one-fifth of the total for the country.
Rokiškis District alone has nearly fifteen cemeteries or nearly 12% of Lithuania’s Old Believer cemeteries.

There are four Old Believer sites in this county that have been placed on this report’s List of Old Believer Sites in Lithuania in Danger (Appendix VI). They are the former Old Believer churches in Sipailiškis, Bobriškis, Raguva, and Pempės. In each case, the danger is due to the threat -- and consequences -- of vandalism, theft, and destruction.

There is one Old Believer site in Panevėžys County that could be ranked as a monument of regional significance (the church in Bobriškis) and another that could be ranked as a monument of local significance (the church in Maneivos).

V.4.(a) Old Believer Churches in Panevėžys County

Four of the nine remaining Old Believer churches in Panevėžys County are in good condition -- Panevėžys, Rokiškis, Bagdonys, and Maneivos. One is in satisfactory condition -- Kvedariškis. The church in Miliunai was destroyed by German troops in 1943. The church in Butkūnai burnt down in the 1990s.

The remaining churches are no longer active and are in danger of destruction -- Raguva, Bobriškis, Pempės, and Sipailiškis.

1. Sipailiškis
   a. Site: Old Believers church in Sipailiškis
   b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The primary site of a group of Old Believers in Sipailiškis and neighboring areas.
      The parish was founded in the 18th century. It was one of the first Old Believer parishes in Lithuania. At the end of the 1940s, Sipailiškis has approximately 2,100 parishioners. The church has not been used since the end of the 1980s. Local parishioners (some three to four families) use the Old Believer church in Rokiškis, 30 km from Sipailiškis.
      The present church was built in the 1920s or ’30s. Its timbered body is built on a concrete foundation. The walls are planked by boards. The roof is gabled. There is a tower in the western part of the church (approximate height 15 m). The building’s ground plan is rectangular (10 x 18 m).
      The Old Believer church in Sipailiškis has particular architectural value as a regional monument with Old Russian architectural details (church towers with an eight-final cross).

   f. Condition of church: Sipailiškis church is in danger of destruction. Public prayer has not been held there since the 1980s. The building itself has not been repaired since the 1950s or 1960s. The church is empty and has a door that does not lock. The fence around the church is broken. The land around the church has become overgrown with trees and brush.

2. Bobriškis

a. Site: Old Believers church in Bobriškis

b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The primary site of a group of Old Believers in Bobriškis and its neighboring areas.

Formerly known as Pusčia, the Bobriškis parish was founded in 1710. It is the first Old Believer parish in Lithuania. At the end of the 1940s, there were roughly 750 parishioners in Bobriškis. The church has not been used from the end of the 1980s. Local parishioners (one to two families) visit the Old Believer church in Rokiškis, 35 km from Bobriškis.

The present Old Believers church in Bobriškis dates from the 1920s or '30s. Its wooden body is built on a concrete base. The walls are planked by boards. The roof is gabled. There is a tower in the western part of the church (approximate height 10 m). The building's ground plan is rectangular (8 x 12 m).

The Old Believer church in Bobriškis has particular architectural value as a regional monument with Old Russian architectural details (church tower, bulb-shaped top, the so-called lukovidnaja glava, with an eight-final cross).

c. Address: Bobriškis village, Rokiškis District

d. Situation: Eastern part of Bobriškis, 400 m north of the road across the peninsula, 150 m south of Sartai lake.

f. Condition of church: The church in Bobriškis is in danger of destruction. Services have not been held there since the 1980s. The building itself has not been repaired since the 1950s or 1960s. It is empty and has a door that
3. Raguva
   a. Site: Old Believers church in Raguva
   b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The primary location of a group of Old Believers in Raguva and its neighboring areas.
      Raguva parish was founded in the 1840s. At the end of the 1940s, the parish served some 300 people. The church has not been used since the mid-1990s. Local parishioners (four to five families) use the Old Believer church in Panevėžys, 25 km from Raguva.
      The present Old Believer church in Raguva was built in the 1930s. Its wooden body is built on a stone foundation. The walls are planked with boards. The roof is gabled (approximate height 9 m). The building’s ground plan is rectangular (8 x 13 m).
   c. Address: Raguva village, Panevėžys District, Panevėžys County
   d. Situation: The eastern part of Raguva, 250 m east of the road Ukmergė - Panevėžys.
   e. Present size of property: Approximately 0.04 ha.
   f. Condition of church: The church in Raguva is in danger of destruction. The church was broken into and robbed at some point. Many icons and some ceremonial objects were taken. Services have not been held in the church since the 1980s. The building itself has not been repaired since the 1990s. The fence around it is broken. The land has become overgrown with trees and brush.

V.4.(c) Old Believer Cemeteries in Panevėžys County

Of the 23 Russian Old Believer cemeteries in Panevėžys County, fifteen were visited and described. Detailed survey results are given for three of these fifteen.

Two of the 23 cemeteries (Rokiškis, Raguva) are in cities or suburbs and 21 are in the countryside. The majority of the Old Believers cemeteries in Panevėžys County are not large by comparison to contemporary Catholic cemeteries. There are only 14 to 500 gravestones in most of the Old Believers’ cemeteries. Only in some are there more than 500 graves. The cemeteries occupy from 0.245 up to 1.2 hectares (e.g., Miliūnai).

Like more than 80% of the Old Believer cemeteries in Lithuania, the cemeteries in Panevėžys County do not have a sign indicating that they are Russian Old Believer cemeteries. In those that do, the signs are written only in Lithuanian and were placed there by the Soviets. However, many of them have an eight-final cross on the main gate.

The main problems in the cemeteries are: broken gravestones, especially old stones that have been abandoned; broken, damaged, or nonexistent fences; and debris or vegetation (fallen tree branches, uncut grass, banks etc.) on the cemetery or near it. There are eight such cemeteries in Panevėžys County.

One Old Believer cemetery in this county (Kauniškis, Kupiškis District) was included in the Register of Immovable Values of Culture of Lithuania after 1990.

V.5. Šiauliai County

Šiauliai County (2001 pop. about 370,700) has five Old Believer parishes -- down from ten during the last century -- and nine Old Believer cemeteries. All nineteen of these sites were investigated.

There are three Old Believer sites in Šiauliai County that have been placed in this report’s List of Old Believer Sites in Lithuania in Danger (Appendix VI): the former Old Believer churches in Dubėnai, Dvarčiai, and Sidarai. In each case the listing is due to the threat -- or consequences -- of vandalism, theft, and demolition.

Two Old Believer sites in Šiauliai County could rank as monuments of local significance: the churches in Sidarai and Dvarčiai.

V.5.(a) Old Believer Churches in Šiauliai County

Four out of the eight still extant Old Believer churches in Šiauliai County are in good condition: Šiauliai; Leonuvka; Radviliškis; and Smilgiai. One is satisfactory: Slijizhiskes. Three other churches are no longer active: Dubėnai; Dvarčiai; and Sidarai. They are in danger of deterioration and destruction, and one of them -- Dubėnai church -- is already half-destroyed.

2. Slijizhiskis, Kelmė District
3. Smilgiai, Kuršėnai District
4. Radviliškis, Radviliškis District
5. Šiauliai, Šiauliai District

Five parishes in Šiauliai County and their churches are no longer active. The church in Juodžiai was destroyed at the end of the 1970s or the beginning of the 1980s. The church in Vileišiai was in a room of an apartment house that was apparently closed by the authorities. The three remaining parishes emptied out after the resettlement or flight of their parishioners, but the buildings themselves still exist.

a. Site: Former Old Believers church in Sližiškis
b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The primary site of a group of Old Believers in Sližiškis and its neighboring areas. Sližiškis parish (formerly Kochaniškes) was founded in the second part of the 19th century. At the end of the 1940s, Sližiškis parish included approximately 450 people. The church has not been used since the beginning of the 1990s. Local parishioners (three families) use the Old Believers church in Leonuvka or Šiauliai, 25 or 40 km from Sližiškis.

The present Old Believers church in Slizhiškis was built in the 1920s. Its timbered body is built on a stone foundation. The walls are planked by boards. The roof is gabled, and there is a tower in the western part of the church (approximate height 11 m). The building's ground plan is rectangular (8 x13 m).

The church has architectural value as a monument of local significance with Old Russian architectural details (church tower with an eight-final cross).

Address: Sližiškis village, Kelmė District, Šiauliai County

Situation: The eastern part of the village of Sližiškis, 140 m east of the road Kelmė - Lioliai.

Present size of property: About 0.075 ha.

Condition of church: Until its renovation in 1997, the church had not been repaired since the 1950s or '60s. The church was broken into sometime during the 1990s. Many icons and some ceremonial items were taken. The church is empty and its fence is broken. The church is in danger of deterioration.

The building and the lot it sits on are the property of a local municipality.

V.5.(c) Old Believer Cemeteries in Šiauliai County

Nine Old Believer cemeteries and one mixed burial site in Šiauliai have been identified. Eight of the cemeteries devoted strictly to Old Believers have been visited and described. Each is located in the countryside. Like the majority of Russian Old Believer cemeteries in Lithuania, those in Šiauliai County only have from 71 to 500 gravestones, with the exception of one that has more than 500. The cemeteries are from 0.16 to 1.5 hectares (e.g., Leonuvka) in size.

None of these cemeteries has a sign saying it is a Russian Old Believer cemetery, but many have an eight-final cross on the main gate, a distinguishing feature of Russian Old Believer cemeteries.

The basic problems encountered in these cemeteries are: broken and/or damaged gravestones, especially old ones that are not maintained; broken or damaged fences; debris (tree branches, uncut grass, etc.) in or near the cemetery; and the absence of a fence. There are four such cemeteries in Šiauliai County.

V.6. Tauragės County

Two Old Believer sites in Tauragės County were investigated: One Old Believer parish in Adakavas (Adachovo), dating from the 1920s to 1950s, and one mixed cemetery, in which Lithuanian Catholics, Russian Old Believers, and Russian Orthodox remains are buried.

   a. Site: Former Old Believers parish (church) in Adakavas (Adachovo)
   b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and historical value: The primary location of a group of Old Believers in Adakavas and its neighboring areas.

   Adakavas parish was founded in 1923. In the 1930s, the parish included approximately 145 people. The parish emptied out at the end of the 1940s and the beginning of the 1950s because of the resettlement of parishioners in cities such as Tauragės, Šiauliai, Klaipėda, Sovetsk (now in Russia), Riga, etc. The church in Adakavas was disassembled in the middle of the 1950s.

   At present, local parishioners (three families) visit the Old Believers church in Leonuvka or Šiauliai, 55 or 75 km from Adakavas.

   The former Old Believer church in Adakavas was built in 1925. It was built of wood.

It and the Russians Orthodox section adjoin the Catholic cemetery. The cemetery does not have a sign indicating that it is a mixed cemetery of Lithu-rian Catholics and Russian Old Believers, but the Old Believer gravestones are marked by eight-final crosses. The Old Believer section contains gravestones that are flat stones with eight-final crosses carved in relief as well as flat monuments with a concrete eight-final cross on top, and other types of monuments.

V.7. Telšiai County

All four Old Believer sites were investigated in Telšiai County (2001 pop. about 180,600). The Old Believer parishes here date from the second half of the 19th and the beginning of the 20th centuries. Four Old Believer parishes were in existence during the second half of the 20th century, and there are four Old Believer cemeteries.

V.7.(a) Old Believer Churches in Telšiai County

In 2001, none of the Old Believer parishes in Telšiai County were consistently active. Three of the churches were destroyed: Lubo-Ketūnai in the 1950s or 1960s; Kontaučiai in the beginning of the 1950s; and Leckava in the 1960s or at the beginning of the 1970s. At the same time, Juozapavas parish has lost its parishioners due to resettlement in other areas. The church in Juozapavas still exists but it is not used.

V.8. Utena County

70 Old Believer sites in Utena County were investigated—well over a third of the total number of sites visited in the entire survey. As this percentage suggests, Utena County holds great importance for Old Believers in Lithuania. One of the first Old Believer parishes in Lithuania was founded in the county in the 18th century. Also in the county were two important religious and cultural centers for Old Believers in Lithuania during the time of the GDL. One was in Gudiškis from 1728-1755 (now in the Ignalina District) and another in Degučiai from 1756-1851 (now in the Zarasai District).

In the second half of the 20th century, there were 22 parishes in Utena County, or more than one-third of all Old Believer parishes in the country. Utena County also has more than one-third of all Old Believer cemeteries in Lithuania. The Zarasai District alone has 27 cemeteries, or nearly 23% of the total number of Old Believer cemeteries in Lithuania.

Six Old Believer sites in Utena County have been placed in this report’s List of Old Believer Sites in Lithuania in Danger (Appendix VI). Three are the former churches in Nečenai, Girelė, and Aukštakalnis. In each case, this is due to the threat -- and consequence - - of theft and destruction. The remaining three are the cemeteries are in Old Polivarok, Pažžuoliai, and Šventupis.

There are six Old Believer sites in Utena County that could be ranked as monuments of regional significance -- the churches in Rusteikiai, Reistaniskės, Šeimatis, Minovka, Nečenai, and Girelė.

V.8.(a) Old Believer Churches in Utena County

There are 16 Old Believer church buildings still in existence in Utena County. Of these, four are in good condition (Zarasai, Utena, Dūkštas, and Paežeriu), and another four are satisfactory (Turmantas, Gailiūnai, Stalnioniškis, Šeimatis). All but three of these eight good or satisfactory buildings are active. The three satisfactory, but inactive, church buildings are in Gailiūnai, Stalnioniškis, and Šeimatis. Twelve of the remaining 13 inactive churches are in danger of deterioration. The thirteenth (the church in Aukštakalnis) is in danger of destruction.

In the 20th century, there were 22 active Old Believer parishes in Utena County. In 2001, only five remained active.

1. Turmantas, Zarasai District
2. Zarasai, Zarasai District
3. Dūkštas, Ignalina District
4. Utena, Utena District
5. Paežerių, Anykščiai District

Seventeen Old Believer parishes and their churches are no longer active. Three of these churches were destroyed (Kalbutiškis, Sirvydžiai, and Rudėnai). Two have burnt down (Kulinčiai and Dovidėnai). One was disassembled and its wood used to build the church in Zarasai (Palivarkas). The remaining eleven parishes have emptied out due to parishioners’ resettled elsewhere, but the church buildings still exist.

V.8.(b) Old Believer Church Sites Surveyed

1. Zarasai
   a. Site: Old Believers church in Zarasai
b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The primary site of a group of Old Believers in Zarasai and its neighboring areas.

Zarasai parish is believed to have been founded in 1735 (when it was still named Samanskij). It is one of the first Old Believer parishes in Lithuania. In 2000, Zarasai parish included 1,200-1,400 parishioners.

The present church (Fig. 40) was built between 1990 and 1992. Its wooden frame is constructed on a concrete base, using timbers from the former Polivarok church. The walls are inlaid with bricks. The roof is gabled, and there is a two-stage church tower rising from the roof. A cross sits on the tower's bulb-shaped top (approximate height about 17 m). The building's ground plan is rectangular (13.32 x 17.52 m).

The church in Zarasai has architectural value as a monument of local significance with Old Russian architectural details (church tower, bulb-shaped top, the so-called lukoviodnaja glava, with an eight-final cross).

c. Address: Vytauto Street 43, Zarasai, Zarasai District, Utena County

d. Situation: The church is in the northeastern part of Zarasai. The building is on the hilly part of a rectangular lot.

e. Present size of property: About 0.5 ha.

f. Condition of church: The building was constructed in 1992 and is in good condition. It is the property of the Zarasai parish.

a. Site: Old Believers church in Raistaniškis

b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The primary site of a group of Old Believers in Raistaniškis village and its neighboring areas.

The church was founded in 1855. The parish was the successor of the well-known Degučiai parish, which was closed by imperial authorities in the 1840s. In the 1930s, Raistaniškis parish included about 1,600 people, making it the largest parish in the Zarasai district. The church has not been used since 1994. Local parishioners go to the church in Zarasai, 14 km from Raistaniškis.

The church was built in the 1920s. Its wooden structure is built over a concrete foundation. The walls are planked by boards. The roof is gabled. In the front of the church is a single-deck tower, with a bulb-shaped top and a cross (approximate height 14-15 m). The building’s ground plan is rectangular (15 x 10 m).
The church has architectural value as a monument of local value with Old Russian architectural details (church tower, bulb-shaped top with an eight-final cross).

Address: Raistaniškis village, Zarasai District, Utena County

Situation: In the northwestern part of the village, 700-800 m northwest from the road Zarasai-Utena.

Present size of property: 0.056 ha.

Condition of church: The building was apparently repaired in the 1980s. In the 1990s, it was plundered. The church has been emptied out. Public prayer has not been held there for six years. Its tin roof has rusted. The land around the church is overgrown with grass and brush. The church is in danger of deterioration.

V.8.(c) Old Believer Cemeteries in Utena County

Summary data: About 49 Old Believer cemeteries and one mixed cemetery in Utena County are identified in the following. Of this number, 44 have been visited and described.

Two of the cemeteries (those in Zarasai and Dmitriskes) are in cities or suburbs, while the remaining 48 are in the countryside. As is typical in Lithuania, the majority of Old Believer cemeteries in Utena County are not large in comparison with contemporary Catholic cem-
There are from 20 to 500 gravestones, and only in some cases are there more than 500 gravestones. They occupy from 0.125 to 2.2 hectares (e.g., Špuli).

Like more than 80% of Lithuanian Old Believer cemeteries, the cemeteries in Utena County do not have a sign indicating that they are Russian Old Believer cemeteries. In those that do, the signs are written only in Lithuanian and were placed there by the Soviets. However, many of them have an eight-final cross on the main gate.

The primary problems in the cemeteries are: broken gravestones, especially old ones that are abandoned; broken, damaged or nonexistent fences; or debris or vegetation (fallen tree branches, uncut grass, etc.) on the grounds of the cemetery or near it. There are 25 such cemeteries in Utena County.

V.9. Vilnius County

In Vilnius County (2001 pop. about 850,700) 22 Old Believer sites were investigated.

Vilnius County is very important in the history and contemporary situation of Old Believers in Lithuania and is one of the country’s most important religious and cultural centers. The Supreme Council of the Old Believers has been held in Vilnius County since the early 20th century and the county is home to the largest Old Believer Pomorian parishes in Central Europe.

In the second half of the 20th century in Vilnius County, there were thirteen Old Believer parishes—roughly one-fifth of all parishes in Lithuania. In 2001, there were four. There are also 28 Old Believer cemeteries here, or more than one-fifth of the total number in the country.

Two Old Believer sites in Vilnius County have been placed on this report’s List of Old Believer Sites in Lithuania in Danger (Appendix VI): the inactive churches in Jurgeliškės and Žemaiteliai due to theft, and destruction from vandalism.

Two Old Believer sites in the county could be ranked as monuments of regional significance: Jurgeliškės and Daniliškis churches. Another, the church in Vilnius, could be ranked as a monument of national significance.

V.9(a) Old Believer Churches in Vilnius County

Four out of eight Old Believer churches still in existence in the county are active and in good condition: Ukmergė; Švenčionys; Vilnius; and Gojus. Three others are no longer active and are in danger of deterioration: Žemaiteliai; Masališkis; and Daniliškis. The remaining church, Jurgeliškės, is in danger of destruction.

Active Old Believer Parishes in Vilnius County
1. Ukmergė, Ukmergė District
2. Švenčionys, Švenčionys District
Nine Old Believer parishes and their churches are no longer in existence. One church was demolished (Abeloragai). Another burnt down (Salkininkai). Three churches, (Manteiki-ai, Junderovo, Migiškis), were disassembled. The remaining four parishes emptied out due to parishioners' resettlement, but the church buildings themselves still exist.

V.9.(b) Old Believer Church Sites Surveyed

1. Vilnius

Fig. 71. Vilnius, Old Believer church.
a. Site: Old Believer church in Vilnius
b. Cultural value and main data: Religious and architectural value: The primary site of a group of Old Believers in Vilnius and its neighboring areas.

It is believed that Vilnius parish was founded in 1830. It is the largest Old Believer parish in Lithuania and one of the largest Old Believer Pomerian parishes in Central Europe. In 2000, Vilnius parish had about 10,000 congregants.

The new Old Believer church in Vilnius was built between 1901 and 1905. The roof is gabled, and on its top is a two-stage church tower with a bulb-shaped top and a cross (approximate height about 25 m). The building is brick and its ground plan rectangular (16 x 30 m).

The church has architectural significance as a monument of national value with Old Russian architectural details (church tower, bulb-shaped top, the so-called lukovidnaja glava, with an eight-final cross).

c. Address: Naujininkai Street 20, Vilnius, Vilnius District, Vilnius County
d. Situation: In the southeastern part of Vilnius, on a hill. It is fenced with stone.
e. Present size of property: About 0.3 ha.
f. Condition of church: The building was renovated in 1995-2000. It is the property of the Old Believer parish in Vilnius.

a. Site: Old Believer church in Jurgeliškes.

b. Cultural value and main data: Historical and architectural value: The former primary location of a group of Old Believers in Jurgeliškės and its neighboring areas.

   The parish was founded at the end of the 19th century. At the end of the 1940s, the parish had 1,200 congregants. The church has not been used since 1991 or 1992. Local parishioners visit the church in Švenčionis, 15 km from Jurgeliškes.

   The church was built in 1931. Its wooden body is built over a concrete base. The walls are planked with boards. The roof is gabled, and there is a three-stage tower topped with a cross in the front (western) part of the church (approximate height 26 m). The building's ground plan is rectangular (16 x 11 m).

   The church has significance as a monument of regional value with Old Russian architectural details (church tower topped with an eight-final cross).

c. Address: Jurgeliškės village, Švenčionys district, Vilnius County

d. Situation: In a western part of Jurgeliškes village, near the road through Jurgeliškes village.

e. Present size of property: 0.08 ha.

f. Condition of church: The building has not been repaired since the 1960s or 1970s. The church was broken into sometime in the 1990s. Many icons and some ceremonial objects were taken. The church has been emptied out, and it does not have windows. At present, it is in danger of destruction.

g. Date of survey: October 25, 2001

3. Daniliškės

Fig. 73. Daniliškės, Old Believer church.
Site: Old Believer church in Daniliškės

Cultural value and main data: Historical and architectural value: The former location of a group of Old Believers in Daniliškės and its neighboring areas.

The parish was founded in the middle of the 18th century. At the end of the 1940s it had included some 250 congregants. The church has not been used since the middle of the 1980s. Small groups of local parishioners visit the church in Vilnius, some 30 km from Daniliškės.

The church was built in the 1920s. Its structure is built of wood on a concrete foundation. The walls are planked with boards. The roof is gabled, and there is a three-stage tower topped with an eight-final cross in the front (western) part of the church (approximate height 11 m). The building’s ground plan is rectangular (13 x 7 m).

The church has architectural significance as a monument of regional value with Old Russian style architectural details (church tower, top with an eight-final cross).

Address: Daniliškės village, Trakai District, Vilnius County

Situation: In a central part of Daniliškės, near the road through the village.

Present size of property: 0.057 ha.

Condition of church: Until its renovation in the 1990s, the church had not been repaired since the 1950s or ‘60s. The church was broken into sometime in the 1990s. Many icons and some ceremonial objects were taken. The church has been emptied out, and at present it is in danger of deterioration.

The building and the lot it sits on are the property of a local municipality.

Date of survey: November 05, 2001

V.9.(c) Old Believer Cemeteries in Vilnius County

The survey identified 28 Old Believer cemeteries and four mixed burial sites in Vilnius County. Summary data about the sites is provided. Thirteen have been visited and described. Two cemeteries (those in Vilnius and Ukmergė) are devoted strictly to Old Believers. Two mixed burial sites are in cities or suburbs, while the remaining seventeen are in the countryside.

As is typical in Lithuania, the majority of Old Believer cemeteries in Vilnius County are not large (in comparison to contemporary Catholic cemeteries). There are from 50 up to 500 gravestones, and only in some cases are more than 500. The cemeteries occupy from 0.25 up to 3.7 ha (e.g. Vilnius).

Like more than 80% of Old Believer in Lithuania cemeteries, the cemeteries in Vilnius County do not have a sign indicating that they are Russian Old Believer cemeteries. In those that do, the signs are written only in Lithuanian and were placed there by the Soviets. However, many cemeteries have an eight-final cross on the main gate.
The primary problems in the cemeteries are: broken gravestones, especially old stones that are abandoned; broken, damaged or nonexistent fences; and debris or vegetation (fallen tree branches, uncut grass, etc.) on the cemetery or near it. There are thirteen such cemeteries in Vilnius County.

Few inscriptions on gravestones are in Lithuanian. More commonly, especially for graves dating from before 1940, the inscriptions are in Church-Slavonic or in Russian, with some in Polish.

      Vėžiškės village and neighboring farms (parishioners of Jurgeliškes parish) are buried here.
      The cemetery has not been used since 1986. It may have been founded in the 18th century, but the gravestones in the cemetery are datable only from the middle of the 19th century.
      Among those buried here are members of the Lukjanovy, Micheevy, and Ivanovy families.
      There are 53 gravestones marking about 72 graves in the cemetery now.
      The majority of burial places date from before 1970.

   d. Situation: 1.5 km northeast of Jurgeliškes, in a grove of birch and maple trees; 300 m west of a forest, and 10 m west of a small stream.
   e. Present size: Approximately 0.02 ha.
   f. Appearance and condition: The cemetery has a sign reading: “Old Vėžiškės cemetery.” A broken fence on the eastern and southeastern sides surrounds it. The cemetery contains gravestones that are finely hewn and inscribed, some flat stones with carved relief decoration (an eight-final cross), double gravestones, vertically set wooden eight-final crosses, and flat monuments with concrete eight-final crosses on top. Seven old gravestones are toppled.
      Eight gravestones are broken. Some five to seven gravestones are not in their original locations.

VI. CONCLUSIONS ABOUT CONDITIONS OF AND CARE FOR OLD BELIEVER SITES IN LITHUANIA

VI.1. Old Believer Churches

Old Believer parishes and churches in Lithuania can be divided into three categories: (1) active parishes with functioning churches; (2) inactive parishes with at least part of a church building remaining; and (3) inactive parishes with no churches extant.

The situation of each of these different categories of churches is distinct and can be summarized as follows:

- All 27 currently active Old Believer parishes in Lithuania have churches that are in good to satisfactory condition (see Appendix II).

- 26 inactive Old Believer churches are in the countryside (see Appendix III). There are many problems with the physical condition of these churches. Almost all of them have been broken into and robbed. Most of them have not been used for some time, varying between three years and twenty or more, and are in danger of deterioration. Five of the 24 churches are in danger of destruction (see Appendix VI); and two of them are already half-destroyed: the church in Perelozai (Jonava District, Kaunas County) has neither doors nor windows and the church in Dvarčiai (Radviliškis District, Šiauliai County) is missing part of its roof and has a disassembled floor, windows without frames, and a broken door. Many of the problems are caused by a lack of security, weather erosion, damage by encroaching vegetation, and vandalism.

- 23 Old Believer parishes in Lithuania had churches that were destroyed, demolished, or burnt down during the 20th century. Only one of these, the church in Nekrūnai was rebuilt, making a total of 22 inactive parishes that no longer have any remnants of their churches (see Table 4 below). The majority of places where these churches formerly stood were identified as a result of this survey. Putting a memorial plaque, a monument, or a cross in spots where former churches stood is an option for memorializing these sites.

VI.2. Old Believer Cemeteries

This survey collects (for the first time) data from 126 Old Believer cemeteries and from eighteen mixed cemeteries. Of these, 105 were visited and described. The results of the specific sites are discussed by types. About 90% are in the countryside. The majority are in good or satisfactory condition. Only a few of them, typically older or inactive cemeteries, remain without care.
More than 80% of Old Believer cemeteries do not have a sign marking them as a Russian Old Believer cemetery. Where signs exist, they are written in Lithuanian only and were installed by Soviet authorities before 1990. Many cemeteries have an eight-final cross on the main gate, however. Gravestones with eight-final crosses are another distinctive feature of Russian Old Believer cemeteries.

The main problems in the cemeteries are: broken gravestones, especially old stones that are abandoned; broken, damaged or nonexistent fences; and debris or vegetation (fallen tree branches, uncut grass, etc.) on the grounds of the cemetery or near it. There are 66 such cemeteries in Lithuania.

The majority of Old Believer cemeteries in Lithuania are not large in comparison with contemporary Roman Catholic cemeteries. There usually are between 20 and 500 graves, with the exception of a few cemeteries where there are up to 1,000 gravestones.

VII. CONCLUSIONS ABOUT OWNERSHIP, RESPONSIBILITY AND LEGAL PROTECTIONS FOR THESE SITES

VII.1. Old Believer Churches

All 27 currently active Old Believer churches, as well as two inactive ones (the churches in Gailiūnai and Stalnioniškis) legally belong to Old Believer parishes, which are responsible for their repair and upkeep. In 2000, sixteen Old Believer parishes were registered at the Ministry of Justice of Lithuania. In 2001, there were 20.

The remaining 24 inactive Old Believers churches legally belong to different municipalities, which have the responsibility to take care of their physical condition. At the present time, however, no Old Believer churches are included in the Register of Immovable Cultural Heritage of Lithuania. This means that no Old Believer churches are under the protection of the national government as a cultural monument of national or even local importance.

VII.2. Old Believer Cemeteries

All cemeteries in Lithuania legally belong to municipalities, which are, therefore, responsible for care.

Some of the inactive Old Believer cemeteries could be considered monuments of Lithuanian history and included in the Register of an Immovable Cultural Heritage of Lithuania. This would give the sites national government protection. After 1990, one cemetery of Russian Old Believers (Kauniškis, Kupiškis District, Panevėžys County) was included in this register.
VIII. OPTIONS FOR FURTHER RESEARCH, PROTECTIVE AND RESTORATION MEASURES, AND PUBLIC ACCESS

VIII.1. Options for Further Research

The purpose of this survey was to identify, locate, and describe the physical condition of Old Believer churches and cemeteries in Lithuania. Further study, description, and documentation of the architectural, cultural, historical, and social significance of individual Old Believer churches and cemeteries (whether as individual monuments or as groups) could be done. Such study can serve as a basis for deciding whether to include sites as Old Believers monuments in the Register of Immovable Cultural Heritage of Lithuania.

Study of other important elements of the Old Believers heritage in Lithuania -- e.g., historical buildings, works of art, (icons and ceremonial objects) -- could also be done.

This survey suggests that similar research should be done in countries adjoining Lithuania. The relevant areas are East Latvia, western Byelorussia, and the northeast of Poland. Old Believers lived in great numbers in this part of Eastern and Central Europe. They had close historical, religious, economic, and familial connections in the entire region from the 18th to the 20th centuries. A similar survey in Poland, Latvia, and Byelorussia has yet to be conducted.

VIII.2. General Observations Regarding Protective and Restorative Measures and Public Access

Regarding the protection of monuments in Lithuania after 1990, one expert puts it as follows:

> Changes in society strongly, though sometimes indirectly, influence the process of the protection of its monuments of culture, a process which nowadays changes in no certain direction and which goes by a faltering zigzag between old stereotypes and new systems, laws and willfulness, national and private interests. (Jūratė Markevičienė, Rytų Lietuvos paminklai, Kultūros paminklų enciklopedija. Rytų Lietuva II, Vilnius, 1998, p. 10.)

This survey can be seen as drawing from and adding to two registers: The Register of Immovable Values of Lithuanian Culture (1994) and The Register of Movable Values of Lithuanian Culture (1996). Its options would integrate protection of sites of Old Believer heritage in Lithuania into national programs of research and preservation.

In Lithuania, the definition of an object of heritage and the legal protection of monuments of culture—as well as the status of scientific research into, and the inventorying, documentation, restoration, and preservation, of these monuments—are currently in a stage of flux. The monuments of Russian Old Believers in Lithuania are no exception. They are one of the least investigated, known, appreciated and protected parts of the cultural heritage of the country.

Actions to protect Old Believer sites should be based on Lithuanian national practices, which could be reviewed. The authorities of Lithuania (including the government as a whole, the Department of Cultural Heritage, municipalities, etc.) could pay more attention to cultural heritage in general, including that of national and religious minorities.

VIII.3. Specific Recommendations Regarding Old Believer Churches in Lithuania

According to the data gathered for this report, there have been 76 Old Believer parishes in the territory of Lithuania at different times during the 20th century. Over that time, there has been a dramatic decrease in the number of active parishes. In 1948, there were 72 while, in 2001, there were only 29. Of these, no fewer than ten had only irregularly-functioning churches.

In 2001, only 20 Old Believer parishes were registered at the Ministry of Justice. The Old Believers were fourth in size among the nine registered traditional religious organizations of Lithuania. Larger were Catholics (742); Russian Orthodox believers (36); and Lutherans (28). Ten or twenty years ago, the Old Believers were second in number after the Catholics among the registered parishes. At that point, more than 50 Old Believer parishes were registered.

Thus, in the period from the end of the 1940s until the end of the 1990s, nearly 65% of Lithuania's Old Believer parishes have closed their doors. Approximately nineteen were disassembled, destroyed, or burnt down. Another 23 were closed, though the buildings themselves still exist.

When not used, churches are in danger of deterioration or destruction—the main and most urgent problem faced by cultural heritage sites of the Russian Old Believers in Lithuania.

This report identifies the following seven options regarding the preservation of Old Believer churches in Lithuania:

1. An Old Believers Site Commission could be established in Lithuania. The Old Believer Sites Commission could act as a guardian of Old Believer heritage. Its primary duty would be to conserve and manage these sites. The form of the Old Believer Sites Commission should be dictated by practical considerations. If geographically close enough, several Old Believer sites with similar problems could come under one district or county commission (e.g., within the State Cultural Heritage Organization). Certain bodies, such as municipal cultural departments, could act as local site commissions.

The Old Believer Sites Commission would consider the problems faced by Old Believers sites in Lithuania, first and foremost the churches in danger of destruction. It would be beneficial if the Old Believer Sites Commission would have a budget to provide general information, promote public awareness, and accommodate school education. Mass media and other channels of communication could be used to publicize the sites as part of Lithuania’s cultural heritage, regionally. Also, the production of guidebooks by counties should be given serious consideration.

2. Museums could be created in several counties’ inactive churches or in the four large historical-cultural regions of Old Believers in Lithuania (Utena, Vilnius, Panevėžys, and Kaunas Counties). In such museums, the local culture of Russian Old Believers can be displayed.

3. Urgent preservation measures such as: roof repairs, the installation of locks on doors or lattices at windows, and the installation of whole windows and/or door, could be considered in the cases of some inactive churches. (See Appendices III and VI for more information.)

4. Five sites could be included in Lithuania’s List of Monuments of Local Significance:
   a. Dudiškis Church (Kaišiadorys District, Kaunas County)
   b. Sidarai Church (Šiauliai District, Šiauliai County)
   c. Former Dvarčiai Church (Šiauliai District, Šiauliai County)
   d. Masališkis Church (Vilnius District, Vilnius County)
   e. Maneivos Church (Rokiškis District, Panevėžys County)

5. Eleven sites could be included in Lithuania’s List of Monuments of Regional Significance:
   a. Former Perelozai Church (Jonava District, Kaunas County)
   b. Kaunas Church (Kaunas County)
   c. Former Bobriškės Church (Rokiškis District, Panevėžys County)
   d. Rusteikiai Church (Zarasai District, Utena County)

   h. Former Nečenai Church (Utena District, Utena County)
   i. Former Girelė Church (Anykščiai District, Utena County)
   j. Former Jurgeliškės Church (Švenčionys District, Vilnius County)
   k. Former Daniliškis Church (Trakai District, Vilnius County)
6. Vilnius Church (Vilnius District, Vilnius County) could be added to Lithuania’s List of Monuments of National Significance.

7. Memorial markers could be installed at the sites of twenty-two former Old Believer churches:
   a. Abeloragai, Abeloragai village, Švenčionis District, Utena County.
   b. Adakavas, Adakavas village, Skaudvilė District, Tauragės County.
   c. Burkūnai, Burkūnai village, Rokiškis District, Utena County.
   d. Dovidėnai, Dovidėnai village, Ignalina District, Utena County.
   e. Išorai, Išorai village, Jonava District, Kaunas County.
   f. Junderovo, Junderovo village, Vilnius District, Vilnius County.
   g. Juodžiai, Juodžiai village, Joniškis District, Šiauliai County.
   h. Kalbutiškis, Kalbutiškis village, Zarasai District, Utena County.
   i. Kontaučiai, Kontaučiai village, Plungė District, Telšiai County.
   j. Kulinčiai, Kulinčiai village, Molėtai District, Utena County.

   r. Rudėnai, Rudėnai village, Zarasai District, Utena County.
   s. Salkininkai, Salkininkai village, Trakai District, Vilnius County.
   t. Sirvydžiai, Sirvydžiai village, Utėna District, Utėna County.
   u. Vegeriai, Vegeriai village, Naujoji Akmene District, Šiauliai County.
   v. Vileišiai, Vileišiai village, Žeimelis District, Šiauliai County.

VIII.4. Specific Measures Regarding Old Believer Cemeteries in Lithuania

1. Five inactive cemeteries of Russian Old Believers could be added to the Register of Immovable Values of Lithuanian Culture:
   a. Old Believer Cemetery in Svetorechje (Utena District, Utena County)
   b. Old Believer Cemetery in Pažuolai (Kupiškis District, Utena County)
   c. Old Believer Cemetery in Kukliai (Zarasai District, Utena County)
   d. Old Vezhiškes Cemetery (Švenčionys District, Vilnius County)
   e. Old Polivarok Cemetery (on an island) (Zarasai District, Utena County)

2. The problems summarized, in Section VI of this report, regarding 61 active cemeteries, should be addressed.

Appendix IX. U.S.-Lithuania Cultural Heritage Agreement

AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF LITHUANIA ON THE PROTECTION AND PRESERVATION OF CERTAIN CULTURAL PROPERTIES

The Government of the United States of America and the Government of the Republic of Lithuania (hereafter referred to as Parties) --

Desirous of successful mutual cooperation in the fields of culture and cultural heritage of either state,

Convinced that such an agreement will contribute to the strengthening of numerous contacts between the two states,

Bearing in mind the respect due to fundamental human rights, and seeking to promote understanding, tolerance and friendship among all nations, racial and religious groups,

Convinced that each culture has a dignity and a value which must be respected and preserved, and that all cultures form part of the common heritage belonging to all mankind,

Desiring to enhance the protection of cultural heritage and provide access to the treasures of national and world culture without discrimination,

Considering that deterioration or disappearance of items of the cultural heritage constitutes a harmful impoverishment of the heritage of all the nations of the world,

Considering that the protection of cultural heritage can be effective only if organized both nationally and internationally among states working in close cooperation,

Considering the principles of the Helsinki Final Act of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, and Desirous of elaborating concrete steps in furtherance of the principles and purposes of the 1972 Convention for the Protection of the World Cultural and Natural Heritage with respect to certain items of cultural heritage of the victims of genocide during the Second World War,

Have agreed as follows:
ARTICLE 1

Each Party will take appropriate steps to protect and preserve the cultural heritage of all national, religious, or ethnic groups (hereafter referred to as “groups”) that reside or resided in its territory, including victims of genocide during the Second World War.

The term “cultural heritage” for the purposes of this Agreement means places of worship, sites of historical significance, monuments, cemeteries, and memorials to the dead, as well as archival and other authentic and documentary materials relating thereto.

The Ministry of Culture of the Republic of Lithuania shall be the Executive Agent for implementing this Agreement on the Lithuanian side. The United States Commission for the Preservation of America’s Heritage Abroad shall be the Executive Agent for implementing this Agreement on the American side. Either Party may, by diplomatic note to the other, change its Executive Agent.

ARTICLE 2

The Parties shall cooperate in identifying lists of appropriate items falling within the scope of Article 1, particularly those, which are in danger of deterioration or destruction. Either Party may publish such lists.

ARTICLE 3

Each Party will ensure that there is no discrimination, in form or in fact, against the cultural heritage of any group referred to in Article 1 or against the nationals of the other Party in the scope and application of its laws and regulations concerning:

(a) the protection and preservation of their cultural heritage;

(b) the right to contribute to the protection and preservation of their cultural heritage; and

(c) public access thereto.

ARTICLE 4

In cases where the group concerned, referred to in Article 1, is unable, on its own, to ensure adequate protection and preservation of its cultural heritage, each Party shall take special steps to ensure such protection and preservation of cultural heritage within its territory and shall invite the cooperation of the other Party and its nationals where assistance is required for this purpose.
ARTICLE 5

Properties of cultural heritage, referred to in Article 4, that are of special significance shall be designated in the lists of items of cultural heritage. Such lists shall be publicly announced and communicated to competent federal, state and local authorities.

All properties of cultural heritage so designated shall be protected, preserved, and marked in the manner stipulated by valid legal internal regulations of either Party. Public access thereto shall be ensured.

Such lists of items of cultural heritage shall be designated by the Commission referred to in Article 6 hereof. The Commission may also designate properties for inclusion in the list at any time.

ARTICLE 6

A Joint Cultural Heritage Commission is hereby established to oversee the operations of the lists referred to in Articles 2 and 5, and to perform such other functions as are delegated to it by the Parties. Each Party shall appoint 3 members of the Commission, who may be assisted by alternates and advisers. Decisions of the Commission shall require the assent of all members. The Parties shall cooperate in supplying the Commission with access to the items of cultural heritage and information necessary for the execution of its responsibilities.

Each Party through its representative on the Joint Cultural Heritage Commission (JCHC) referred to in the first paragraph hereof may request that special arrangements, as appropriate, be worked out under the procedures of the JCHC to protect and preserve the cultural heritage in the territory of the other Party of groups not covered under Article 1, in cases where such cultural heritage is associated with the cultural heritage abroad of citizens of the requesting Party and is in need for any reason of protection and preservation. The other Party will consider steps, within the scope of its laws and regulations, to respond to the request.

ARTICLE 7

Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed to relieve either Party of its obligations under the 1972 Convention for the Protection of the World Cultural and Natural Heritage or any other agreement for the protection of cultural heritage.

ARTICLE 8

This Agreement shall be implemented in accordance with the laws and regulations of both countries and the availability of funds.
ARTICLE 9

Disputes concerning the interpretation or application of this Agreement shall be submitted to the Agents referred to in the third paragraph of Article 1.

ARTICLE 10

This Agreement shall enter into force upon an exchange of notes by which the Parties inform each other about the fulfillment of their respective constitutional requirements for entry into force. It may be amended by mutual written agreement of the Parties.

This Agreement shall remain in force until terminated by either Party giving written notice to the other Party through diplomatic channels of its intention to terminate this Agreement, which notice shall be effective six months from the date of delivery.

DONE at Vilnius this 15 day of October 2002, in duplicate, in the English and Lithuanian languages, each text being equally authentic.
