Overview

Dr. Scott Walter is a library leader, scholar, educator, and consultant with more than 20 years of experience in academic libraries. He is University Librarian and Professor at Illinois Wesleyan University, where he also serves as University Copyright Officer. Prior to his current position, Dr. Walter served in a number of senior library leadership positions, including as University Librarian at DePaul University, Associate University Librarian for Services as Associate Dean of Libraries at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and Assistant Dean of Libraries for Information and Instructional Services at the University of Kansas. A teacher as well as a librarian, Dr. Walter has also served on the faculty of DePaul University, Washington State University, the University of Kansas, and the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, where he held the rank of Professor of Library Administration and Library and Information Science.

Dr. Walter has held leadership roles in a number of professional associations and consortia, including, most recently, as Americas Regional Council Representative to the OCLC Global Council and a member of the advisory board for the IMLS-funded Library Integration in Institutional Learning Analytics (LIILA) project. Previously, he served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Catholic Research Resources Alliance, Consortium of Academic and Research Libraries in Illinois (CARLI), and Library Publishing Coalition, and as Editor-in-Chief of College & Research Libraries, the scholarly journal of the Association of College & Research Libraries. Dr, Walter also served as a founding member of the Board of Directors of Chicago Collections, a unique consortium of 30+ libraries, archives, museums, and community partners across the City of Chicago. Dr. Walter is currently serving on advisory boards for the San José State University School of Information and the Institute for Research Design in Librarianship.

Dr. Walter is currently a Lecturer in the San José State University School of Information, and is completing work on a collection of essays to be published by the Association of College & Research Libraries focused on strategic collaboration between academic museums and libraries. Dr. Walter has authored or edited more than 25 articles, book chapters, and monographs, and presents regularly at local, state, national, and international conferences. He has served in leadership positions in the American Library Association, Association of College & Research Libraries, and American Educational Research Association, and was recognized in 2012 with the ACRL "Distinguished Education and Behavioral Sciences Librarian" award. Under his leadership, the DePaul University Library was recognized on campus with the annual assessment award from the Center for Teaching and Learning, and, more broadly, through a nomination for the National Medal for Museum and Library Service and a feature story in the Chronicle of Higher Education, entitled "What the 21st-Century Library Looks Like" (2017).
