Contents

Acknowledgements ........................................... VII

Werner Huber, Seán Crosson
Contemporary Irish Film: An Introduction ...................... 1

Tony Tracy
Inventing the Past: Perspectives on How Harry Became a Tree (2002) . . 13

Seán Crosson
Irish Intolerance: Exploring Its Roots in Irish Cinema ............. 23

Agnes Kakasi
Migration and ‘Intercultural’ Cinema in Ireland: A New Direction? . . 37

Zélie Asava
The Nephew, Irish Jam, and The Front Line:
Black and Mixed Masculinities in Irish Cinema .................. 51

Eduardo Barros Grela
Re-Defining Urban Identities in Contemporary Irish Film(s) ....... 67

Neasa Hardiman
‘Once Won’t Happen Twice’: Peripherality and Equality
as Strategies for Success in a Low-Budget Irish Film .............. 81

Thomas Walsh
The Secret of Kells: Ireland’s European Identity in Feature Animation . . 91

Ruth Barton
Neil Jordan: Superstition and Religion .......................... 105

Diòg O’Connell
Immersed in Two Traditions:
The Narratives of Adam & Paul, Garage, and Prosperity .......... 115

Seán Crosson, Mark Schreiber
“If Irish cinema is going to be really great it has to stop worrying too much about being ‘Irish cinema’”: Q & A with Lenny Abrahamson and Mark O’Halloran ........................................ 127

Notes on Contributors ......................................... 149