To the President of the Senate

COMMUNICATION ON SENATE BILL NO. 996

February 17, 1993

Dear Mr. President,

I am writing to seek your advice on the matter of the recent developments in the State of California. As you are aware, a number of significant bills have been introduced in the current legislative session, including one that seeks to address the issue of water management in our state.

The bill in question, SB 996, proposes a comprehensive approach to addressing water shortages and ensuring a sustainable water supply for future generations. It includes provisions for the implementation of conservation measures, the development of new water supplies, and the allocation of resources to support these initiatives.

I believe that this bill presents an opportunity for our state to take a leadership role in addressing the challenges posed by climate change and population growth. It is my understanding that similar measures have been successful in other states, and I am confident that SB 996 can achieve similar results in California.

I urge you to consider the merits of SB 996 and to support its passage. I am committed to working with you and my colleagues to ensure that this bill receives the necessary attention and support to become law.

Sincerely yours,
