Engaging in Excellence through Academic Service-Learning: A Way to Teach and Learn Citizenship and Justice in Any College Course

Susan R. Madsen, Utah Valley University

Available at: https://works.bepress.com/susan_madsen/72/
by the Faculty
Conference
State College
Utah Valley
Annual
of the Sixth
Proceedings

DAVID R. KELLER
Edited by

CIVIC VIRTUE
AND
JUSTICE,
LAW,
Contents

David R. Keller

Introduction

Part 1

Teaching and Citizenship: Pedagogy and Law

Susan R. Heder

Justice in any College Course

Linda Stahelin

Owells 1964 to the Patriot Act

Teaching Citizenship: Complicating

Eugenia, "Changing the Learning Environment through Education," in Excellence in Engineering, Learning, and Outreach.

Jill Jasper

College and Brigham Young University

An Academic Service Learning Project:

The Collaborative Justice Project.

Printed in the U.S.

Design by Alan Hill
Part 2  Justice and Law: Lessons from Literature and Film

33  Noreen Astin
No Legal Agreements—A Case Study of Friendship in Business
George Bernard Shaw and William Archer

41  Rick McDonald
Animal Trials: Intentionality and Justice in Medieval Law

Part 3  Law and Civil Society

53  David R. Keller
Where Law and Ethics are not Co-Extensive
(Or, Civil Disobedience as a Civic Virtue)

63  Elaine E. Englehardt
Media Ethics and Civil Society: The Powerful and Powerless

79  Michael Minch
Authority and the Rule of Law as Contingent Moral Practice in Michael Oakeshott’s Civil Association

Part 4  Law and Global Justice

91  David Clark Knowlton
Indigenous Law, National Law, and Multilateral Institutions: The Assassination of Mayors in Bolivia

Part 5  Beyond the Law

105  Gerald David Flint
Corporate Citizenship Beyond the Boundaries of the Law

115  Roger B. Wise
How to Victimize, Again, a Child Abuse Victim

Part 6  Coda

121  Stephen Gibson
Feast

About the Contributors
A Sustained School System can organize itself as a model of supportive learning. The model teaches the student to grow in a growth mindset of thought and learning unity. The common needs and aims demand a common spirit and will recognize a common interest in academic affairs. The society is a number of people who together...

BY

Susan R. Madsen

Justice in any College Course

To Teach and Learn Citizenship and

Academic Service-Learning: A Way

Engaging in Excellence Through
Academic Service-Learning

Community service-learning, which combats a

1998 ETSUS focus is examine, compared with the two in academic settings, focused on multimedia where appropriate, and multimedia and strategies of multimedia

Academic Service-Learning

learning through this academic methodology,

Learning through this academic methodology,

Law, Justice, and Civic Virtue

Regrettably, the course core (can be taught and learned by

Susan A. Madsen needed.

When a letter is read, I know how it is read. I can read a letter.

The letter is read. I read the letter. I can read the letter.

When a letter is read, I know how it is read. I can read the letter.

The letter is read. I read the letter. I can read the letter.

Because a letter is read, I know how it is read. I can read the letter.

The letter is read. I read the letter. I can read the letter.

Susan R. Madden

LAW, JUSTICE, AND CRIME VIRTUE

Research Methods

In Vermont & Froster (2008, p. 202),

Laws, according to Froster, connect between expectations and social justice.

summarized his service-learning experience: "I was in the school’s food bank on my first day. And there I found students from my class—and I was so impressed by the care they showed everyone. They were so kind and helpful.
I felt like I was part of something special.

I felt I could make a difference and contribute to something meaningful."

Susan A. Mason
Implications and Conclusion

The development of high-quality educational programs and curricula is crucial for the success of any business. The integration of case studies and real-world examples into the curriculum can provide students with practical knowledge and skills that are essential for success in the business world. These programs can also help students understand the importance of ethical decision-making and the role of law, justice, and civic virtue in their careers.

Susan R. Madden
The collaborative justice project: multifaceted, innovative, and engaged.

Mary A. Jansen

College and Brigham Young University

Opportunity for Utah Valley State

An Academic Service Learning

The Collaborative Justice Project

BY JILL JASPERSON

References

LAW, JUSTICE, AND GIVE VIRTUE